

WILSON CHOICE OF DEMOCRATS

New Jersey Governor Is Nominated
On Forty-Sixth Ballot By Total
Vote of 990.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Baltimore, Md., Convention Hall, July 2.—Woodrow Wilson, former President of Princeton University and Governor of New Jersey, was this afternoon nominated for the presidency by the democratic convention after forty-five fruitless ballots had been taken. His nomination became an accomplished fact after the forty-fifth ballot when Wilson showed a total of 663 votes to Clark's 306, Underwood's 97, Harmon's 25 and Foss's 27.

Senator Bankhead of Alabama, Congressman Underwood's campaign manager, asked permission to address the convention and withdrew the name of his candidate from further consideration. Then followed release after release of other campaign managers of their candidates votes.

Senator Stone of Missouri, released the Clark delegates, but stated that Missouri would continue to vote for their choice. Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, Foss's captain, then released Foss followers and stated Massachusetts would vote for Wilson.

Majority of the delegation and the state's twenty-four votes were cast for him. The Wilson adherents cheered Virginia, but from the Clark forces there went up a shout, "Ryan and Bryan." Thomas J. Ryan who was denounced by William J. Bryan, a member of the Virginia delegation.

The disorder was quieted only to break out with renewed vigor as the entire Clark vote of sixteen in West Virginia went over to Wilson. In Wisconsin Wilson gained one more.

Woodrow Wilson gained one hundred and eight votes on the forty-third ballot, the first cast today, and the hope for breaks appeared at hand. Illinois' fifty-eight delegates propelled the movement and gains were made also from Connecticut, Idaho, Ohio, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Hawaii. Wilson's vote was six hundred and two, a majority of the convention.

It was the highest vote he had received and the vote of three hundred and twenty-nine for Clark was the lowest received by him during the prolonged balloting. When the result was announced the demonstration for Wilson was as enthusiastic and protracted as the weary delegates could make it. Wilson lacked only one hundred and twenty-four of the necessary two-thirds to nominate.

"Come on you, Wilson," yelled the Jersey delegation as they leaped to their chairs. The ballot left Wilson with one hundred and twenty-four short of the necessary two-thirds to nominate.

Once more the call of the roll began. It was the forty-fourth ballot and Wilson in the beginning gained one in Arizona. Colorado climbed aboard the band wagon giving Wilson a gain of nine. This made the vote ten to two for Wilson. One of the two was Mrs. Anna R. Pitzer, sister-in-law of Speaker Clark.

In Idaho on this ballot Wilson lost one-half a vote, but he gained two as Indiana's vote was cast solidly for him.

It was rumored on the convention floor that Governor Marshall of Indiana would be a candidate for vice-president if Wilson were nominated.

Wilson gained three and one-half in Iowa and Louisiana gave him one more. The Mississippi delegation was in caucus when called on the forty-fourth ballot and was passed. Previous to the conclusion of the forty-fourth ballot it was said that in the event of Mr. Wilson's nomination he would be asked to visit the convention and it was expected he would accept the invitation.

Under the new order the presentation of the platform was postponed until after the nomination of the candidate to permit him to inspect the declaration of principles in advance of its adoption. The leaders think the candidate can give better attention to the matter here than at his home.

Maryland gave Wilson a gain of one and one-half and Ohio gave him a gain of one more. Pennsylvania's two Clark men swung into line and Wilson received the solid sixty-six from that state.

In Tennessee Wilson gained one. Underwood's eight votes for him, a gain of one and one-half votes.

Wisconsin swung into line with its twenty-six solid votes and a cheer from the Wilson adherents greeted this gain of four votes.

Woodrow Wilson lacked only ninety-six and one-half votes on the forty-fourth ballot, indicating a strong possibility of nomination on the forty-fifth ballot. It was reported that there would be a slump of Underwood votes to Wilson probably on the forty-fifth ballot, but certainly on the forty-sixth if that many ballots were cast.

When the forty-fifth ballot was called, Senator Bankhead, Underwood's campaign manager, had permission to address the convention and in a formal statement withdrew the name of Mr. Underwood. The cheering continued for some time and the ballot proceeded.

Although Wilson made slight gains early in the fifth ballot there were no serious breaks in the dwindling Clark ranks. At this point Senator Bankhead mounted the platform and released the Underwood delegates. He said Underwood had entered the convention hoping to be the nominee but his chief desire was to eradicate every vestige of sectional feeling, that had now been demonstrated by the liberal support given the Alabama candidate.

He would not be a party to the defeat of any candidate. "But I think the time has come to recognize that he cannot be nominated in this convention nor can he be used to defeat any other candidate," Bankhead proceeded Vice President, queried a delegate from the floor "NO" shouted Bankhead. "He will not turn from the important duties he is performing to take such an office vice president."

"Mr. Underwood directs me to withdraw his name from this convention," said Bankhead amid impressive silence adding a tribute of thanks from Underwood from the sincere and loyal support given him. He added that his friends were now at liberty to vote for whom they pleased.

Senator Stone of Missouri, moved to make the nomination of Woodrow Wilson by acclamation. Baltimore, Md., July 2.—When the democratic national convention met today exactly one week after it was first assembled, the identity of the presidential nominee, was as much in doubt as it was at the initial session.

Woodrow Wilson, the leading candidate, lacked 231 1/2 votes on the 42nd ballot, the last taken before adjournment last night. Champ Clark, who had dropped from first to second during the day's voting still appeared to control considerable more than enough delegates to block the nomination of Mr. Wilson without depending on the scattering votes.

To those closest in touch the situation today appeared to be complicated as much as ever. Friends of both Wilson and Clark began to entertain serious doubts as to whether either could be nominated in face of stubborn opposition of the other and today they were furtively casting their eyes about the field for a suitable "dark horse."

The Clark forces tried desperately all day yesterday to stem the tide of desertions from their wavering ranks. They saw their strength wane from 460 votes on the 27th ballot to 422 on the 39th while Wilson was drawing all seemed lost the tide turned and the speaker made slight gains while the New Jersey governor was slipping back on the last three ballots. On the final poll, Wilson had 494 votes against 430 for Clark.

Several times yesterday Clark was on the verge of losing the 58 votes which the Illinois delegation had given him from the outset. The Wilson adherents were confident that the expected switch would come on the first ballot taken today. With Illinois taken, they felt that the Clark route would be complete and that only a few more ballots would be necessary to win over the remaining votes necessary to their success.

On the other hand the Clark followers appeared confident that the Wilson assault had spent itself and that the deserters would return soon to the fold bringing many others with them. They so assured the speaker himself, who was in Baltimore last night for a conference in regard to their situation. This assurance is said to have served to dissuade Mr. Clark from his purpose of appearing personally before the convention to answer the statements of Mr. Bryan.

Oscar W. Underwood has continued to rank third in the voting and neither of the two leading candidates has been able to make serious inroads on his strength. Friends of the Alabama insist that he is the only man whose nomination would bring ill-factions together.

Bryan was the center of interest as Wilson's nomination became certain. He said he had wanted most of all the nomination of a progressive.

Wilson Gratified at Result of the Convention When Told of the Final Vote.

Sea Girl, July 2.—Governor Wilson and wife and daughter were seated on the veranda of the "Little White House" when notified by long distance telephone of his nomination. The honor is as great as can come to any man he said. "I hope to show my appreciation of the trust and confidence reposed in me."

A few minutes later he received a telegram from Underwood announcing his congratulations and promise of support.

Wilson in Bath Tub When Convention News Arrived

Seagirt, N. J., July 2.—Governor Wilson was in the bath tub when the reporters burst into the executive mansion and shouted, Governor, Illinois has gone to you. There were sounds of vigorous splashing within the bath of vigorous response. "The room, but no other response. The governor's three daughters danced with delight when they heard the news. A moment later the governor sent word to the reporters that he was "perfectly delighted."

Democratic Senators Send Word of Congratulation

Washington, D. C., July 2.—All the democratic senators on the floor upon receipt of the news of Woodrow Wilson's nomination joined in a congratulatory message to him. The message was as follows:

"We congratulate you and the country upon your nomination. We are confident of your overwhelming victory."

Denies He Gave Consent to Withdrawal of Name

Washington, July 2.—Congressman Underwood heard later by long distance telephone of the withdrawal of his name.

"My friends wish me to say that the action of Alabama was without my knowledge or approval, and I make that statement," he said.

"How about the vice-presidency?" he was asked.

"I am not a candidate. I do not want it and will not accept it if I am nominated."

State Officials Refuse to Discuss the Attack of Soo Line President.

Madison, Wis., July 2.—Officials in the state capital flatly declined today to discuss the attacks of President Edmund Pennington of the Soo line, who said that by her policy of public utilities regulation Wisconsin is going backward and not forward. R. A. Campbell of the state board of public affairs declared there is an abundance of material to show that Wisconsin has made tremendous progress during the past ten years.

Roosevelt Adherents Defeated in First Skirmish of Ohio Convention

Columbus, O., July 2.—The Taft forces won the first test in the republican state convention today when a motion to table the minority report of the resolutions committee was adopted by a vote of 428 1/2 to 301 1/2. The minority report differed from the majority in that it made no reference to the Chicago convention or the Taft administration. The majority report was passed by a viva voce vote and the nominations for governor taken up.

With the Taft and Roosevelt factions still at loggerheads; with no less than ten candidates for gubernatorial nomination and with the practical assurance that there will be no third party split, the recessed session of the republican state convention probably will be thrown into a bitter fight immediately after convening today, when the majority and minority reports of the platform committee will be submitted for adoption.

The majority report was framed by the Taft leaders and contained a ringing endorsement of President Taft and his administration and of the platform adopted by the national convention at Chicago. The minority report of the Roosevelt supporters demanded that no further endorsement be made of the President and that no allusion be made to the Chicago convention. At its first session, a resolution was passed by the state convention giving Taft a mild endorsement. The vote on the minority report as a substitute will show whether or not the Taft forces have lost or gained their majority of 23 votes which they displayed at the first session of the convention last month, when Ohio's six delegates at large were selected to the national convention at Chicago.

New York, July 2.—The republican ticket and platform adopted at Chicago will be ratified by New York republicans at a meeting to be held tonight at the republican club.

Several local assembly organizations have already endorsed the Taft ticket and those which have not done so are now planning to hold ratification meetings in the near future.

Unite Against Roosevelt.

Huron, S. D., July 2.—The republicans of the South Dakota met today to adopt a platform and nominate candidates for presidential electors. The Taft-La Follette delegates have combined their forces against the Roosevelt men and claim they will control the convention. The La Follette forces will ask for 3 of the 5 electors. The Taft men hope to secure the adoption of a resolution endorsing Taft's administration.

BURNS IS EXPECTED

Detectives on Stand in Darrow Bribery Case Will Furnish Crisis of Trial.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Los Angeles, Cal., July 2.—The possibility of an exciting session caused a record crowd to seek admission to the bribery trial of Clarence S. Darrow today. The bitter personal feeling between Wm. J. Burns, the detective who took the stand for what was expected to be sensational cross examination and Earl Rogers, chief counsel for the defense, led many to believe that the session would mark a crisis in the trial.

At the close of yesterday's session Rogers and Burns were each fined $25 for contempt of court by Judge Hutton for injecting their personal animosities into the hearing and even the vigorous admonition of the court against a repetition was not expected to prevent a further outbreak.

Contrary to expectations Burns' direct examination did not bring into evidence any new facts. Burns had indicated that he would tell of his investigation into the so-called dynamite conspiracy and name some of the "higher ups" alleged to have been involved but no questions were asked by the district attorney Fredericks bearing on that phase of the case.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, July 2.—With nearly one hundred million dollars in the cash drawer of the treasury officials today expressed the belief that it will not be necessary to issue additional bonds for the construction of the Panama canal for nearly a year.

The purchase and building of the waterway to date has cost the United States $276,487,000. Of this amount, $137,388,000 has been paid out of the general fund of the treasury and the remainder from bond issues.

Balancing its books for the fiscal year just closed, the treasury department issued a statement showing that the army cost $150,182,000 against $160,136,000 the previous year; the navy $135,556,000 against $119,938,000 and pensions $153,597,000 against $157,931,000.

The postal deficiency for the year, according to unreserved figures was $1,508,000, while $22,616,000 was paid out in interest on the public debt.

Further Disturbances in Chinatown Includes Murderous Assault on Fellow Oriental.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, July 2.—A regiment of police scoured Chinatown for several hours today in an attempt to arrest a party of Orientals who made a murderous attack on several of their countrymen as they were on their way to a street tenement early this morning. Nearly fifty shots were fired by the attacking party, all of whom escaped. There was only one casualty, a tong leader named Chu Fong receiving bullet wounds which will probably prove fatal.

When the police reached the tenement they fought eight Chinamen lying on their backs near a long coping. It was at first thought that all were dead but examination showed they were merely prostrated by fright. They had taken refuge behind the coping to escape the volley of shots.

FIVE KILLED WHEN
DIRIGIBLE BALLOON'S
GAS BAG EXPLODED

DESIGNED FOR ATTEMPT TO CROSS ATLANTIC IT IS DESTROYED ON TRIAL TRIP.

VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Who Watched Daring Voyagers Sailing About in Skies at Atlantic City When Accident Occurred.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—In view of three thousand spectators the big dirigible balloon Akron was shattered by the explosion of the gas bag at 6:38 this morning, a half mile from the shore at the Absecon inlet.

Melvin Vaniman, who had built the airship with the idea of flying across the Atlantic Ocean, Calvin Vaniman, his younger brother, Fred Elmer, Walter Guest and George Bourton, his crew, were instantly killed.

The dirigible was sailing at a height of one thousand feet and had been in the air since 6:15 o'clock when the accident occurred. It was just above Brigantine Beach, which is across the inlet from this city.

The huge envelope containing thousands of cubic inches of gas was wrenched from the dirigible by the explosion, probably caused by expansion from the sun's rays.

It burst near the middle and a mass of flames hid the ship from view where for a space of ten minutes the dirigible was invisible, while the air about the spot where she had been hovering seemed to be a mass of flames.

The fire dissipated and the ship's outline was seen against the sunrise and seemed to fall like a plummet.

First the understructure of the car in which the unfortunate men were held in by a meshwork put on after the second trip of the balloon, made it impossible to escape, broke away from the envelope.

It up ended, the bow turning first in the low arc. Then it reversed suddenly and plunged downward.

Directly above twisting in a long spiral was the bag, a mass of rubber and silk with flames voting out from all sections as it collapsed.

In the descent what appeared to be the body of a man shot out of the wreckage and hit the water before the rest of the mass of flames and it was reported that it was the headless body of Calvin Vaniman.

At 8:20 a. m., a message was relayed ashore from rescuers that his body had been recovered. With it came the statement from Captain Lambert Faureur of the Absecon life saving crew that this was true and the other members of the crew were entangled in the wreckage beyond reach for the present in eighteen feet of water.

Thousands of people from every part of the resort were gathered along the inland board walk and about the Vanniman cottage just across from Hangar at the inlet where Mrs. Vaniman collapsed and became unconscious from the shock. A physician was in attendance.

Police reserves who had helped to launch the craft which sailed so gracefully until the accident occurred kept the crowd from about the Vanniman flight.

The flight was the second the airship had taken this year. After tinkering all winter with the airship Vaniman took her out for a short flight on Saturday morning, June 1. At that time he was obliged to land early by some of the mechanism being out of shape, but landed with serious mis-bap.

The longest flight made was last fall when it spent the greater part of the day in the air in the vicinity of this city. At that time the gas in the bag was not sufficient to keep the balloon constantly in the air and it had to make several landings. During the winter Vaniman improved the ship through lessons he had learned in that flight.

In general appearance the Akron was not unlike the America in which Walter Wellman and Vaniman attempted to cross the Atlantic Ocean in October, 1910, but there were many differences in construction. The gas bag was about thirty feet longer than the America, but was smaller in diameter. The length of the bag was two hundred and fifty-eight feet, diameter twenty-seven feet. The bag was made of rubber and was constructed in Ohio.

The car was similar in shape to the America, but was longer, perhaps one hundred and fifty feet. The bottom of the car was composed of a round steel tank two feet in diameter and about one hundred feet long. In this was stored gasoline. The car was connected to the gas bag by a steel tubing of light construction.

On top of the tank was a big platform of two-inch boards and on this rested one one hundred horse power motor, two of eighty horse power, one seventeen horse power and a small dynamo.

An eye-witness of the disaster told this story of what he saw:

"When about one thousand feet in the air I saw a sudden puff of smoke from the forward end of the bag. In a minute it exploded."

To those who had witnessed the flights of Vaniman this one seemed to be the most successful of any he ever made at the start.

The crew seemed to have better control than ever before. Starting out from a hangar the ship rose slowly from the ground and passed easily over the water in the inlet, grazing the masts of the fleet of yachts anchored there.

Vaniman and his crew were cheered by a number of fishing parties in the inlet about to start out for a day's sport and the whistles from the Woodrow Wilson.

Not to be outdone Congressman Fitzgerald then rose and made a motion to make the nomination of Wilson unanimous. This was voted down and the forty-sixth ballot taking with the following result:

Forty-sixth ballot. Wilson, 990; Clark, 84; Harmon, 12; absent two.

The great fight was over. The convention then proceeded to make the nomination of Wilson unanimous amid the greatest of enthusiasm.

At three thirty-five Chairman James formally announced the nomination of Wilson accomplished.

Convention adjourned until 9 P. M. when nominations for vice-president will be made and a platform adopted.

EARLIER BALLOTS.

Forty-third ballot: Clark, 329; Wilson, 602; Underwood, 98 1/2; Harmon, 28; Foss, 27; Bryan, 1; Kern, 1.

Forty-fourth ballot: Clark, 306; Wilson, 629; Underwood, 99; Harmon, 27; Foss, 27. Wisconsin voted 26 for Wilson.

Forty-fifth ballot: Clark, 306; Wilson, 633; Underwood, 97; Harmon, 25; Foss 27.

At 12:09 Chairman James took his place on the platform and at 12:15 directed the calling of the roll for the forty-third time. There was a general impression that today's session would find some means of breaking the deadlock.

In Arizona on the forty-third vote Clark lost 1 vote to Bryan. Connecticut showed a gain of two for Wilson. They left the Clark Column. In Idaho Wilson gained one and one-half.

The ball was quiet as Illinois was reached. When Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago announced "eighteen votes for Clark; forty for Wilson" there was great cheering.

Chairman James pounded the table with his gavel and finally quieted the uproar. "Illinois, under the unit rule, cast fifty-eight votes for Wilson," he announced and another cheer greeted the shift.

This gave Wilson a clear gain of fifty-eight votes in Illinois. The New Jersey governor continued to gain. In Iowa he added one and one-half to his total vote.

When Kentucky was called and the vote was announced twenty-six for Clark, one of the delegates deman-ed: "I want to know if Kentucky can vote for Wilson if a majority of the delegates desire to do so?"

Gov. McCreary, chairman of the delegation, argued that the instructions of the Kentuckians would not allow a break. The Wilson men did not press the point although evidently confident of a vote in the delegation.

In Louisiana Wilson gained two and in Michigan eight additional votes were obtained. New York stopped what for a few minutes looked like a Wilson landslide. The delegation had decided in caucus to continue to cast its ninety votes for Clark.

The vote in the caucus showed for Clark, seventy-eight; for Wilson ten; and Underwood two. Representative Sulzer announced the New York vote as ninety for Clark as heretofore.

This dispelled all hope of a nomination on this ballot. North Carolina added two extra votes to the augmented Wilson count.

When Virginia was reached Senator Swanson arose to explain the state's vote. He asserted that at a caucus this morning the delegation had decided to enforce the unit rule for the first time. Wilson had secured a ma-

SCANT ATTENTION IS PAID TO ORDINANCE

DOUBTFUL IF CONTRACTORS KNOW CITY HAS BUILDING ORDINANCE AND ITS REQUIREMENTS.

THERE ARE VIOLATIONS

Without Number in the New Buildings That Have Been Erected Within the Fire Limits.

It is doubtful if contractors or persons planning to construct new buildings know that the city has on its books a stringent building ordinance. If they do, the frequent violation of this ordinance is surprising in that prosecutions have not followed. One builder conversant with the work done in the past few years stated recently that the requirements as to thickness of walls and material in many of the new structures was not in accord with the law he was certain.

Doubtless like many other of the ordinances on the city books, the building portion has been of so little importance apparently that it has become a dead letter. Under the old council system if an attempt had been made to enforce it it would have been a simple matter to have it set aside for this or that individual with enough pull to control the aldermanic influence. However under the commission it may not prove as much of a dead issue should an attempt be made to enforce it by the proper authorities.

It might be interesting to read over this ordinance as it stands and see what it requires and then do a little questioning for yourself and see if the contractor was right when he said it had been frequently violated. Like one state law it is perhaps a dead letter still. It is a curious question why it was ever enacted if not to be put in force.

The ordinance is as follows:

Section 4. Permits to be obtained. Before beginning to erect or enlarge any building within such fire limits, or to change the structural parts of any such building in the making of repairs or alterations otherwise, a permit for the same shall be obtained from the chief engineer of the fire department and it shall be unlawful to proceed with the erection or enlargement of or to alter any such building until such permit shall have been obtained.

Section 5. Applications for permits. Applications for such permits shall be made in writing by the owner or his agent, and shall state clearly the work contemplated, and shall be accompanied by such drawings and specifications as will enable the chief engineer to obtain full information as to the extent and character of the work to be done, and the time to be occupied in doing the same. If the matters stated in such applications and shown by such plans and specifications indicate to the chief engineer that the work to be done is not in accordance with the provisions of this chapter, or with the provisions of chapter XII of this ordinance, relating to electric wires and apparatus, he shall in writing specify wherein they are defective and refuse to issue a permit until such defects in such plans and specifications have been remedied. In all such permits issued by him the chief engineer shall specify upon what part of any sidewalk, street or public alley, if any such plans may be placed during the prosecution of the work contemplated and the length of time during which such parts of sidewalks, streets or public alleys may be so used and if during the progress of any such work it shall be desired to deviate from the plans or specifications on which any such permit has been issued, a written notice specifying what change or deviation is desired, shall be given to the chief engineer and his written consent thereto obtained before any such change or deviation shall be made. The chief engineer shall file with the city clerk all such applications, plans and specifications, together with copies of all permits and consents issued or given him thereon, and whenever he shall refuse to issue any such permit applied for or shall refuse to consent to the making of any such desired change or deviation, he shall give to the applicant therefore a written statement of his reason for such refusal.

Section 6. Appeals to the Common Council. Any person feeling aggrieved by any action or decision of the chief engineer in refusing to grant a permit or by any action taken by him as being authorized by this chapter may appeal from such action or decision to the common council by serving a written notice of appeal on the city clerk. Such notices shall state clearly and briefly the grounds of complaint, and shall be accompanied with the original or a copy of the decision of the chief engineer, and the common council shall consider such grounds of complaint and make such decision and dispose of the matter as it may deem just.

Section 7. Penalty. Any person who shall violate any of the preceding provisions of this chapter shall forfeit and pay to the city a penalty not exceeding fifty dollars nor less than five dollars, and each day during which any violation of any such provisions shall continue, shall constitute and be deemed a separate offense and violation thereof.

REPAIR BROKEN GATES AT INDIAN FORD DAM.

Were Carried Out by Ice in Early Spring—Accounts for Low Stage of Water at This Point.

Repairs are being made to the sluice gates at the Indian Ford dam and the shutting off of the flow through these accounts in a large measure for the rapid drop in the level of the river at this point. The gates were carried out by the ice early last spring and no attempt was made to make repairs during the very high water.

The Janesville Electric Company received yesterday a long-awaited shipment of steam and water pipe necessary to complete the connections between the boilers and the new steam turbine. The connections will be made as soon as possible. A. C. Rea, who superintended the installation for the Allis-Chalmers Company, is expected here soon to complete the work. He is now spending his vacation at Jefferson.

BELIEVE HIGH MARK IN DEATHS PASSED

Government Thinks It Has Solved Question of Risks in Mining.

That the high tide in the terrible death rate in American coal mines has been reached and passed is the confident belief of the officials of the United States Bureau of Mines.

Figures issued today by the Bureau show that 2,517 men were killed in the mines last year as against 2,534 for 1910. This shows a reduction in the number of lives lost of 17 in one year's time. The death rate in 1910 was 3.91 men in every 1,000 employed. The rate in 1911 was 2.74. Compared with 1907, the darkest year in the history of American mining, when 3,197 men lost their lives, 1911 shows a decrease of 680 in the number of men killed. It was following the record of this year that congress authorized the government to begin investigations looking toward a reduction in the death rate and this was supplemented in 1910 by the creation of the Bureau of Mines.

Discussing the death statistics of the coal mines, Dr. Joseph A. Holmes, director of the Bureau of Mines, said: "While these latest mortality statistics in the coal mines of the country show slight improvement over the previous years, the United States has still no record to be proud of. In spite of the progress we have made we are still far below the standard of safety that we ought to have reached."

"It is, of course, comforting to know that for each year since 1907 there has been a decreasing number of men killed for every million tons of coal mined, and that for every life lost we have each year taken out of the earth more tons of coal. This is an improvement in the right direction. I hope that within the next year or two we will see as great an improvement in the reduction of the number of men killed as we saw in 1907."

"The Bureau is co-operating with the state mine inspectors, the mine workers and with the mine operators in an endeavor to solve many of the difficult problems connected with the coal mining industry in this country. In this effort all the above forces are co-operating in good spirit in the determination to bring about better conditions. In this co-operative effort there is also serious study of the statements. No branch of industry in this country is on so bad an economic basis today as is the coal mining industry, and this industry can never be placed on a satisfactory basis until, through important legislative changes, improvement in this economic basis is made possible."

It was early in 1908 that the federal government began its investigation of the causes of mine disasters following the climax of accidents in 1907. The record for 1907 and the following years is as follows:

|   |  |
|---|--|
| 1907, thirty-one hundred and ninety-seven men killed, or 4.83 in every 1,000 employed;  |  |
| 1908, twenty-four hundred and forty-nine men killed, or 3.64 in every 1,000 employed;   |  |
| 1909, twenty-six hundred and sixty-eight killed, or 4 in every 1,000 employed;          |  |
| 1910, twenty-eight hundred and thirty-four men killed, or 3.91 in every 1,000 employed; |  |
| 1911, twenty-five hundred and seventeen men killed, or 3.74 in every 1,000 employed.    |  |

CHURCHES WILL JOIN IN UNION SERVICES

Arrangements Have Been Made for Sunday Evening Meetings During the Month of July.

Arrangements for union Sunday evening services have been made for the month of July by the Baptist, Congregational, Presbyterian and Methodist churches. The meetings will be held at 7:30 p. m. and continue for one hour. There will be good music and earnest prayer, and the several churches extend a most cordial invitation to the general public to attend these services. These union services are intended to demonstrate our unity of spirit, our identity of purpose and our willingness to serve the common interests of Janesville.

The service next Sunday evening, July 7, will be held in the Methodist church. Rev. J. C. Hazen will preach the sermon and the program will appear in the press. Men, women and children of all or no religious affiliations are invited to come and spend a pleasant, helpful hour. Invite your friends and help this brotherly work.

ARMY AUTOMOBILE TRUCK IN CITY LAST EVENING

Had Accompanied Troops of Regular Army on March From Dubuque to Sparta—Leased by Government.

A one and a half ton Mack automobile truck, one of twelve machines of different makes which have been accompanying the regular army troops on their march from Dubuque to Sparta, reached this city last evening and proceeded on its way to Chicago this morning. The Mack machine was loaned by the government for demonstration purposes. According to its driver the tests imposed by the government were very exacting. The trucks were expected to accompany the mule trains which made it necessary for them to run as slow as two miles an hour. On the other hand when provisions had to be brought from the bases of supplies the trucks were sent for it and supposed to make extremely high speed. The driver of the Mack truck claimed he had carried two and one-half tons much of the time.

BEGIN REMODELING WEST SIDE STATION

Substantial Improvements to be Made in Fire Department's Quarters—Move Stalls Back.

Work preliminary to the remodeling of the central fire station was begun this morning when the cement floor in the lean-to at the rear was torn up. Heretofore this room has been used for hay storage but when the plans made are carried out it will be occupied by the horse stalls which are now in the main building. The floor in the lean-to which was higher than that in the main building will be lowered to its level so as to provide proper drainage.

A thirty inch Bethlehem "T" beam, weighing 150 pounds to the foot will carry the load now supported by the posts which are to be removed. With the stalls moved much needed room for the apparatus will be obtained and there will be no floor obstructions of any kind. The beam is the largest size that is carried in stock and could be secured only from the Bethlehem Iron Works at Pittsburgh. It has already been shipped.

The old stairway, narrow, and exceptionally steep, will be replaced with one four feet wide and with an easy grade. Additional partitions will be put in on the second floor so as to provide more rooms. On the south side of the building, occupying what was formerly the old Council room and the battery room, where will be housed the fire alarm apparatus now in the city hall together with that in the fire station. On the other side of the hall will be the coat bins, the supply room and a large closet, and in the rear the firemen's bedroom. The new arrangement will make the sleeping room much more airy and eliminate stable odors.

THE FOURTH OF JULY HAS BECOME AMERICA'S GREAT OUTING DAY

By J. R. HAMILTON.
Former Advertising Manager
Wanamaker's, Philadelphia.

The one important thing in which the signers of the Declaration of Independence were in arranging their Independence Day according to the Pope instead of according to the moon. The Lunar instead of the Gregorian calendar was what we needed most. To have the Fourth of July always come on a Saturday would have been a fitting climax to their patriotic task.

"The first Saturday after the first full moon after the summer solstice," is the way it should have read. Then we could have celebrated from Friday night clear through till Monday morning a holiday worth while.

As it is, we must simply make the best of a bad matter. Most of us will go away Wednesday night and stay away as long as we dare. It is the beginning of the summer vacation for some of us; and for all of us it is at least one day's fun.

And now we have just one day in which to prepare for that outing. So the question is how can we make the most of our time and of our money?

There are trunks and bags to be bought; there are dresses and shoes and clothes generally for ourselves and the family and whether we are going from the city or from the country to the city, we have one of the busiest shopping days of the season ahead of us.

Now the thing to do is take this paper, go through the advertising, and find out first of all whether what we want is being offered somewhere for sale.

All good merchants are expecting the Fourth of July to come this year as usual; they know by experience what the general demands will be and they are prepared to meet them.

So you can trust entirely to the advertisers in this paper not only to supply all your demands, but to supply them at the lowest prices and with the best of service.

This advertising and storekeeping are all of a piece. The good advertisers are always the best storekeepers and the good storekeepers are always the best advertisers. That is why you usually find that the best values and the best service go together.

The man who doesn't advertise is hardly to be considered. His progress is too slow for this century and his service and his merchandise take about the same lame gait.

You will save time and money and be fresher for your holiday by using the advertising pages of this paper for your buying guide. Turn to the advertising now. (Copyrighted.)

FIVE MEN KILLED! DISIGIBLE BALLON GASBAGEXPLODED

After being up about thirty feet the air ship made a complete circle of the water on Grady Bay. Apparently Vanniman was making a test of the air current.

Mrs. Vanniman, although she fainted on the shore of her little dwelling when she saw her husband dropping to his death, stood the strain better than the others, after she became conscious and was upon her feet. Mrs. Bourtilion and Mrs. Elmer cried on Mrs. Vanniman's shoulder.

Despite the intensity of the moment Mrs. Vanniman talked of her husband. "He was so very brave," she said, "that I believe he never knew what fear was. I never presumed to urge him not to go up for I knew it would not influence him."

The spectators did not realize that anything had happened until suddenly the huge bag was seen to buckle from the two ends, forming a perfect "U." There was no report, but immediately the collapsed bag fell toward the ocean with frightful velocity.

An eye witness said: "The forms of five men could be plainly seen plunging down through the air from a great height. Their bodies turned over and over again before they sank in the sea just off the outer bar and not far from a can buoy."

From the board walk abreast of the life-saving station it looked as if the now limp gas bag and its metal frame-work covered their bodies. Men on the board walk turned their eyes from the sight and women screamed. One man who appeared to grasp the situation made a dash for a hotel to telephone for help.

"A large launch on the way to the fishing grounds started to blow a whistle to attract the attention of the boats and in a short time the inlet waters were blocked with boats rushing to the aid of the men."

Vanniman, because of his genial disposition, had endeared himself to the citizens of Atlantic City and his untimely end caused universal sorrow here.

Three of the widows of the men killed in the airships are Mrs. Vanniman, Mrs. Bourtilion and Mrs. Elmer. They had gathered at the Vanniman cottage across from the hangar within an hour after the accident.

HUNDRED THOUSAND GALLONS OF OIL FOR USE ON STREETS

Estimated That This Quantity Will Be Required Before End of Season—Much Work to Be Done.

One hundred thousand gallons of oil will be used to lay the dust on Janesville streets before the end of the season, according to the estimate of L. A. Babcock, who has been doing the oiling in the city up to this time. Five carloads, or 48,000 gallons, have been used so far this year, and a hundred blocks are yet to be oiled, which will require 48,000 gallons more. Mr. Babcock has received an order for 6,000 gallons of oil for use on Milton Junction streets. This will be applied next week.

SPORT SNAPSHOTS

by DAN MCCARTY

The secret is out now why the Washington club in the American league never can play championship ball. It's too hot in the capital city to practice. These warm summer mornings while the boys on the other league teams are out making hay, Griffith's men must seek a cool and shady retreat. Griffith has ruled to discontinue morning practice. The heat, he says, saps the players' vitality.

Query: Will Ty Cobb of the Detroit Tigers play as good a game with a losing, dispirited, down-and-out team as he did with a team of league champions? Dozens of players might be mentioned who have been only ordinary on losing clubs, but big stars on winning clubs. Cobb, great as he is, is likely to be affected the same way.

Cobb has been very successful as a base stealer, but what incentive is there to steal third and then steal home when the game is not at stake. Cobb's enthusiasm has won Detroit many games, but may can be enthusiastic these days. Cobb may slide down the scale. We shall not be surprised if he does.

If the Washington team in the American league should win the pennant this season, it is quite likely that none of the players will have to live on charity next winter. In addition to the world's series money they will get, if they finish first, a cash prize of $10,000. This sum has been raised by the Washington business men, and will be turned over to the team in the event that it brings the pennant to the capital city.

Word has been received at the Comstock track, in Grand Rapids, Mich., the local home of the grand circuit, of serious injuries suffered by Thomas Murphy, the noted trainer who was expected there June 29 with his string of two dozen grand circuit campaigners. Murphy was kicked while driving Chimes Hall, recently, and while no bones were broken, he suffered severe injuries.

Champion Ad Wolgast is doing very little hard training in preparation for his fight with Joe Rivers at Vernon, Cal., on July 4. "It's natural training that puts me into condition to do battle," declared Ad recently. "I don't believe in leaving my right out on the road or in the gymnasium. I probably won't do over two days' hard training for my match with Rivers."

A wrestling match of considerable importance will be staged at Convention hall at Muskogee, Okla., on the night of July 4 between Johnny Bitter, of Toledo, O., champion lightweight wrestler of the world, and Jack Fisher, of Muskogee, champion of the southwest. The match is at 155 pounds, matador, for the world's championship title.

Dr. Albert H. Sharp, of Philadelphia, former Yale player, has been engaged to coach the Cornell university baseball team next year. He is also under contract to coach the football and basketball teams. This is the first time in Cornell athletic history that one man has been chosen to coach three athletic teams.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Eddie Slevens, former Detroit Tiger pitcher, is umpiring in the Southern Michigan league.

Birmingham has the call in the Southern league. The Barons top the bunch and are traveling like winners.

Umpire Johnstone, of the National League, wears a metal covering over his shoes to protect his feet from foul tips.

Johnny Shovelin, for whom Pittsburgh paid $14,500 is playing third base for the Newark team in the Ohio State league.

Rumor has it that Manager Kling, of the Boston Braves, has offered Vin Campbell in a trade for Rebel Cakes, of the Cardinals.

Cobb and Jones are the only members of the Detroit team hitting for .300 or better, and Zimmerman is the only Cub in the .300 class.

Al Orth, the former big league pitcher, has made a hit as an umpire in the Virginia League, and may be given a trial in the major leagues.

Milan, of the Washington team, is the leading base-stealer in the American League, and Doyle, of the Giants, holds the same honor in the National League.

When his pitching days are over, Otis Crandall, of the Giants, who is leading the National League in hitting, will still be able to stick in the game as an outfielder.

The laying of the cornerstone at Ebbetts Field, Brooklyn's new baseball park, will take place on July 6. Manager McGraw and his Giants will be the attraction of the day.

R. L. Beatty.

In the recent intercollegiate meet at Philadelphia five records were broken. R. L. Beatty, of Columbia, was one of the record breakers, putting the shot 48 feet, 10 3/4 inches. This beats by three inches the previous world's record, which Beatty also held.

W. H. Watkins, the veteran baseball manager, has disposed of his interest in the Indianapolis club and taken up his abode at Springfield, Ohio. "Watt" is president of the Springfield club in the Central league and will direct the team in the future.

MINOR LEAGUE CHANCES.
Quite a number of minor league clubs have "hit the chutes" this season owing to lack of attendance. Among the changes that have taken place in the minor organizations are the following:

Virginia League. Lynchburg and Danville dropped from circuit.
Connecticut League. New Britain team transferred to Waterbury.
Ohio and Pennsylvania League. New Castle and Conneville dropped from circuit.

State League. Altoona team transferred to Reading; Lancaster team transferred to Atlantic City.
Ohio Interstate League. Ashtabula, Cotton States League. New Orleans team transferred to Yazoo City; Hattiesburg team transferred to Columbus.

Texas-Oklahoma League. Greenville and McKinney dropped from circuit.
New York-Connecticut League. Disbanded.

Blue Grass League. Winchester team transferred to Mt. Sterling.
Oklahoma State League. Oklahoma City and Anadarko dropped from circuit.

DETROIT TWIRLER SLUMPS WITH TEAM

Edgar Willett.

Edgar Willett, the Detroit twirler who so often has pitched the Tigers to brilliant victory, is going down with his club. A glance at the pitching averages is enough to convince anyone of that. Willett is led by a score or so of American league pitchers. The entire team seems to have lost heart, and has assumed a "don't care" attitude which threatens to keep the Detroit boys in the second division the remainder of the season.

PERSIAN PROPHET TO REMAIN IN U. S.

Abdul Baha.

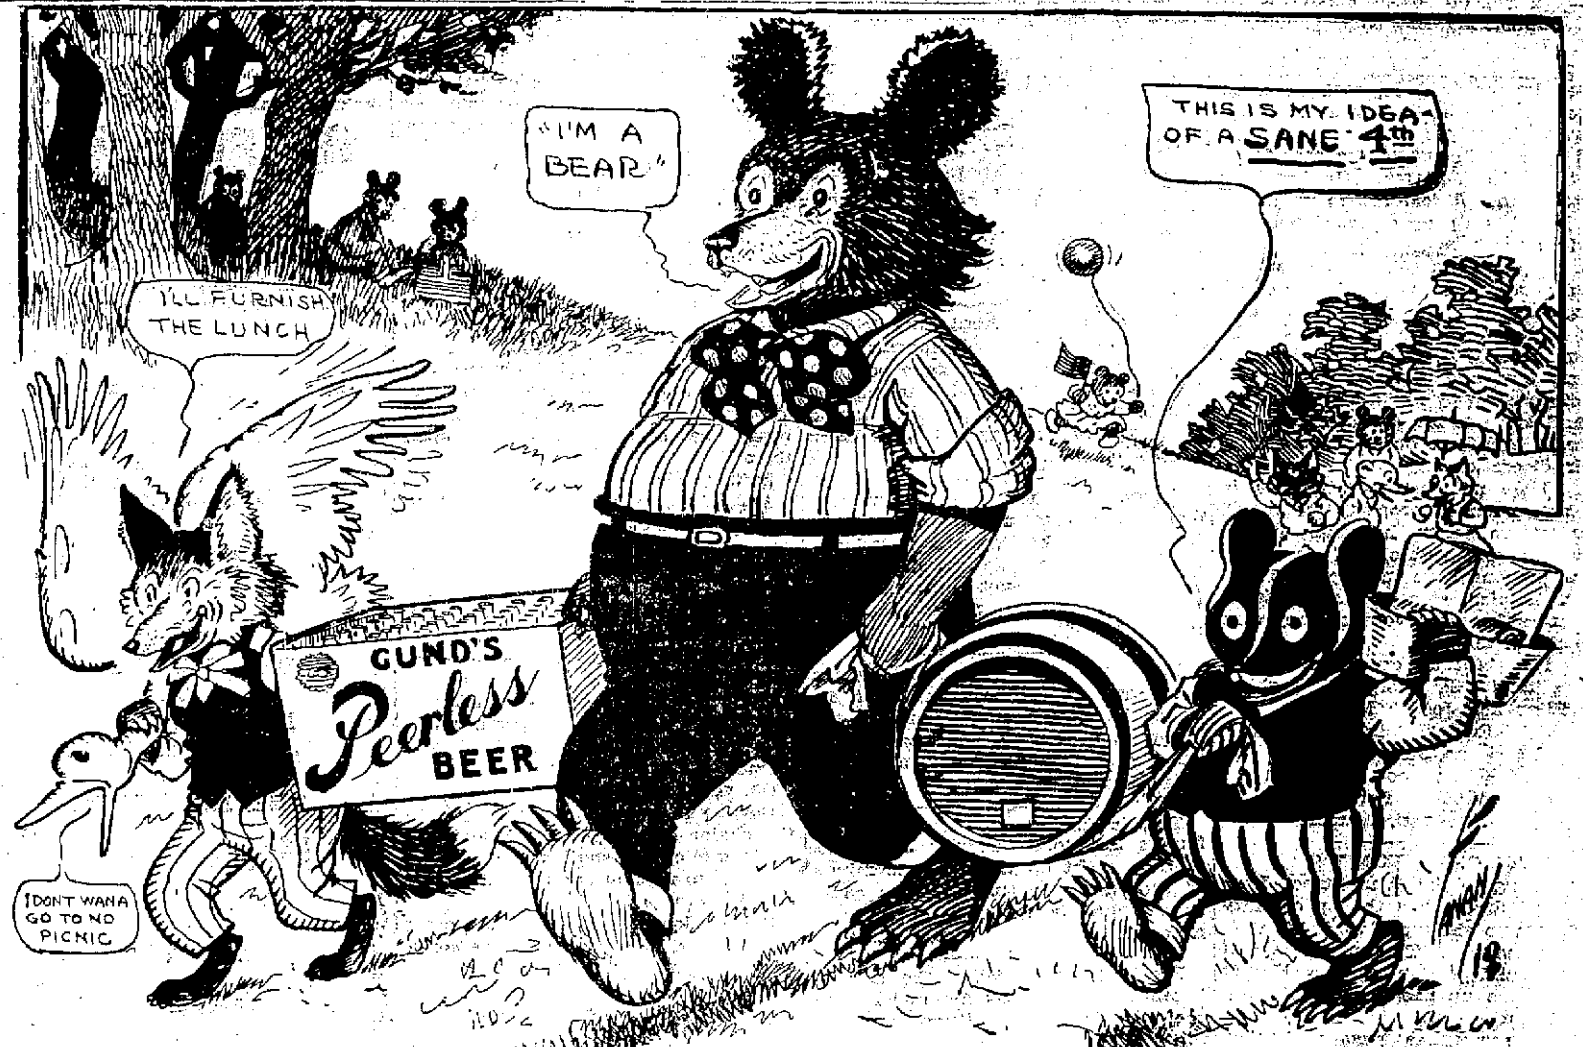

Abdul Baha, founder and head of the new sect, Bahaism, likes America. In fact, he is so pleased with this country that he has determined to remain here the rest of his days. Abdul Baha came to the United States from Persia last winter, with the intention of returning at the end of a few months. His new sect, which embraces many of the best things in all the religions, has gained many American converts. This may account for his determination to remain in America.

WILL JACK JOHNSON RETAIN CROWN? BOXING SLUMPS, BUT HE LOOKS WINNER

Jack Johnson

With the Johnson-Flynn fight only a matter of hours away, fight experts at Las Vegas give the battle to the colored champion, although they agree that Jack is not in as good trim as when he defeated Jackim at Reno two years ago. He is lighter than he was then, his calves never large in proportion to the rest of his body, have dwindled, and the power of his arms does not appear to be as great as in other days. Most noticeable yet is the negro's poor hitting, both as to force and judgment of distance. However, he is picked to win in the tenth or twelfth round.

The 4th of July—A Day of Rejoicing

136 years ago (July 4th, 1776) the world was given the Declaration of Independence, which issued this proclamation to mankind—"We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness." No wonder, therefore, that the citizens of this Republic choose this day above all others as a day of rejoicing. One of the missions of a barley-malt and hop brew like

If the beneficiaries of corrupt traction franchises, and others of the same kind active in politics, represented 'Wall Street' (which they do not), they would not be one penny the better or safer if they could buy the entire democratic convention, body, boots and breeches.

"In other words, there is no guarantee that what the most corrupt financier purchased from an equally corrupt politician could be delivered. The independent voter has made such bargains an anachronism. Wall Street has now the opportunity to set itself right with the people of the United States, who in the aggregate, not as represented by the noisiest but by the best, must ultimately govern the country.

"Sound finance, which is sound business, has the opportunity to spend money profitably and cleanly on the education of the voter. It can teach the voter that honesty is the best policy, in finance as in everything else, including politics; that the business of the country and individual fortunes have grown not because business became more corrupt, but because it became cleaner; that the railroads of the country give better service to the passenger and the shipper because what they do is open and aboveboard; and that the credit of the banks increases automatically with every measure to limit their abuse for private advantage, and with every regulation which leaves their expert guidance in expert and honest hands.

"These things are not beyond the comprehension of the man in the street. Any voter may be shown that the growth of wealth, as exemplified by 'Wall Street,' (which is merely the barometer of the country's prosperity), has been stimulated by honesty and clean dealing, and retarded by any alliance between crooked politics and crooked finance. Here is a text for any sincere reformer, however little he may appeal to hysteria and discontent.

"What ideal could be finer, or what policy could be more to the profit of the whole country than the clearing away of the falsehoods and misunderstandings which have obscured the relations between the financial center and the people, whose servant it must ever be?"

With the exception of 1860 when the democrats took fifty-nine ballots to decide who was to be their nominee, and in 1852 when it took forty-nine to decide the question, the present convention has broken all records for long-windedness. In 1860, Douglas was the choice, but he lost out to Lincoln, as history tells us. However that year the democrats bolted and part of them nominated Breckinridge.

Wisconsin will come in for its share of ruction in the political life when La Follette gets time to decide just how he will discipline McGovern. It looks as though someone was going to have a fight for their political life let alone future senatorial aspirations.

Congress had to hurry up and pass that extraordinary measure permitting the present appropriations for the fiscal year to be continued through the month of July so that public work all over the country would not stop.

The reception of the ninety New York votes in the Baltimore convention have somewhat the same tinge as the reception of the Eighth Massachusetts when it marched through the same city in the Sixties.

Of course "Sunny Jim" Sherman returned from Big Moose lake because the climate did not agree with him. Lots of other republicans who planned to follow the Bull Moose into his lair have decided the altitude is too severe.

It is going to be hard work to convince some of the democrats that Bryan is not playing a deep political game all of his own and that some of the big leaders were not double crossed even if they did have their fingers crossed.

Anyone who predicted the present democratic convention would be a tame affair talked without knowledge of Bryan's plans. He saw all that was accomplished and not accomplished at Chicago and went east prepared for something big.

Predatory wealth is something the good, true Jeffersonian democrat deplores, but somehow or other even the followers of Andrew Jackson like to have an opportunity to gain a little of it if possible.

This is July second. Count all the fingers and toes carefully before tomorrow night on the small members of the family because by the same time Thursday there may be some missing.

President Taft visited the city of Brotherly Love last night and had to pass right through Baltimore and all the democratic hosts to reach his destination. His train was not even disturbed.

Colorado has already become incorporated in the big Bull Moose party by Judge Lindsey and others who did not like the way matters were conducted in Chicago.

Bryan has had three trials at the presidency already and lost. Cleveland had three also and won twice. But then things were different.

Fifty years ago there were some celebration of the nation's birthday in which harmless firecrackers were not used.

This is hay weather for the political writers who are handling the two big political conventions on space rates.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By Roy K. Moulton

Truthful Things We Never Hear. "To tell you frankly, Mrs. Brown, I think your gown is a fright. It doesn't set well in the back, dear, and the color scheme is not particularly adapted to your style of beauty."

"I would much rather you had called another day, Mrs. Jones, if you felt that you were obliged to call. It has interfered with my plans considerably to have you here all the afternoon. Come again, if you think that you must."

"Honest to goodness, Mag that new hat is the limit. Why didn't you get one with a little style to it?" "Really, Mrs. Smith, I don't like your biscuits. They are not nearly as light and fluffy as those I make for my husband. You may learn some time."

"I have not had a perfectly delightful time at your party. Fact is, I have been bored unthinkably. Why don't you think up something new to spring on your guests once in a while?"

Side Talk With Girls. Geraldine—"The best cold cream we know of is ice cream. It's the coldest anyhow."

"Annie—No, we do not believe the suffragists will ever impair their natural grace and poise by wearing suspenders."

Lottie Bibbins—"You say some ladies improve their facial appearance by wearing rubber masks at night. Why not wear them all the time, Lottie?"

Madeline—"Fear not, little one, even though you are too stout. The high cost of living will soon fix that."

No office-seeking man is he. He cures not if it's wet or dry. Or bitter cold or fiercely warm. He cares not how the winds may sigh. Pressing an approaching storm. He never takes a passing glance. At the official weather map; And there is not the slightest chance That he could ever cure a snail. He's not afraid of footpads or of burglars who break in and steal. He never must go begging for a meal. This price to buy a good square meal. He doesn't care how prices soar. The cost of living is a joke. He never lets out a frenzied roar. He gets things happen as they will. And takes the good night with the bad. No hobby can give him a thrill. He's not a crank on any fad. He never speaks an unkind word About a single living soul. For gossip to him is absurd. His tongue is under strict control. "Remarkable," of course, you say, But this man you will never know. Because, you see, it is this way: They buried him ten years ago.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. HALL'S CATARRH CURE, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

DRAGGED TWO BLOCKS
BY RUNAWAY HORSE

George A. Shurtleff Has Miraculous Escape From Death—Wife Sits Helpless in Carriage.

Injuries which to all appearances seemed fatal were suffered early last evening by George A. Shurtleff who was dragged by a runaway horse for more than two blocks over the brick pavement on South Main street, while Mrs. Shurtleff sat in the carriage unable to stop the horse or care for her own safety. Mr. Shurtleff held tenaciously to the reins although the wheels passed over his arms several times, and his head bumped over the hard pavement. All this did not render him unconscious, and though badly cut and bruised he was able to walk from the carriage into the house after his injuries had been attended to by a physician. Mrs. Shurtleff was not hurt but suffered a severe nervous shock.

The runaway took place at about 6:30 o'clock, just as Mr. and Mrs. Shurtleff were starting for a drive. Mrs. Shurtleff had taken her seat in the carriage and Mr. Shurtleff was holding the reins and about to get in when the horse suddenly became frightened and started down town. Solicitous first of all for the safety of his wife, Mr. Shurtleff retained his hold of the reins and tried to stop the horse, and although falling in this attempt did not relax his grip. Residents on South Main street rushed out as they heard the screams of Mrs. Shurtleff and saw with horror Mr. Shurtleff dragged all the way from his home below South Third St., to South Second street. The attempt of witnesses of the runaway to stop the horse at this point caused it to turn toward Park street. Here Mr. Shurtleff was obliged to release his hold on the reins. Dr. Edden who was near at hand brought him to his office and gave his wounds attention. He was found to be bleeding from several cuts on the head, arms and shoulders, and sustained many bruises all over his body.

The horse ran up Park street as far as the jail, and before reaching Court street was headed into an alley and stopped by several men. Neither the horse nor carriage were damaged.

SIDEWALK KETCHES.

THE SUMMER RESORT.

By Howard L. Rann.

The summer resort is a species of delirium which is bounded on the north by a sand beach, on the east by a howery dance, on the south by love at first sight, and on the west by a $3 table d'hôte. It is the first place people go to when they want to shed a little the parking care and rest up. There is nothing to do at a summer resort except rest and pay. Some people buy so much rest at one of these resorts that they are spoiled for work for all eternity and most of the suburbs. It requires a good deal of preparation to rig up for a summer resort so that old timers won't think you have just broken out of the bay field. A man has to have a change of pique shirts for every hour in the day, a willing baritone voice, an appetite for George Barr McCutcheon, and an ability to fall in love with everybody on the grounds who is over fourteen and under ninety. All the daily summer resort needs is a languishing look and a large voracious capacity for platonic piffle. A good looking man with natural hair and expensive clothing doesn't have much chance to recuperate at a summer resort, as he is chased from bathing beach to tennis court and back to the golf links by a bevy of unfettered and determined females, who outnumber him in the ratio of 1 to 1 and seek his views on matrimony. Every summer resort has a large majority of fetching young women and slowly fading spinsters, and a great many men of light mind and giddy manner attend every year in order to see how many times they become engaged without putting up any diamonds as collateral. Once in a while somebody takes a summer resort proposal seriously and starts something in the district court, offering as exhibits considerable mental anguish and a bleeding heart, but this does not happen often enough to cause any falling off in the attendance. Summer resorts are increasing and so are the hotel rates, but both put good money into circulation that otherwise would be stagnating at 1 per cent.

QUEZON DEMOCRAT FROM PHILIPPINES

Manuel Quezon.

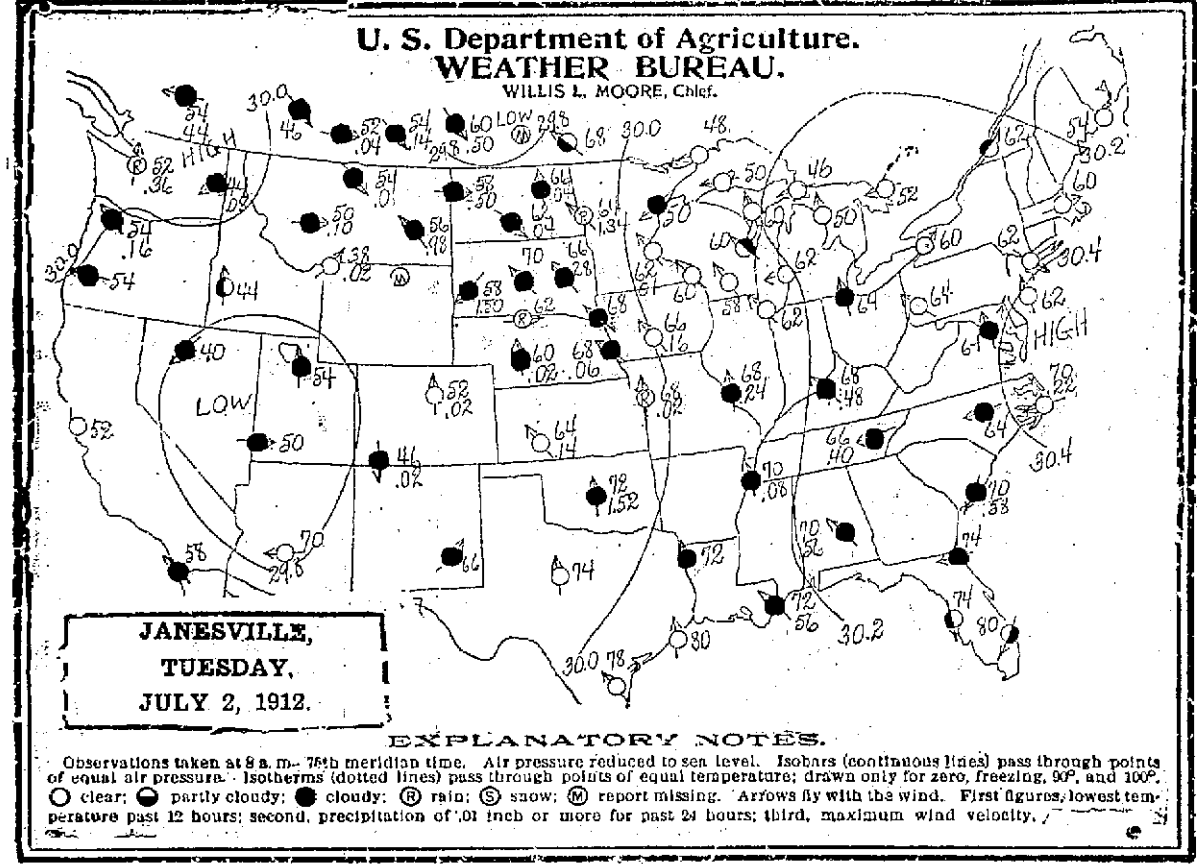

The attention of visitors and delegates at Baltimore during convention week was frequently attracted by a neatly dressed young man wearing a brown face and a white suit. He was Manuel Quezon, and he explained to those who were curious enough to ask, that he was a delegate to the convention from the Philippine Islands. Quezon is a pretty good American, and now that he has seen what a mighty country we have here he is more pleased than ever to think that the stars and stripes still float over his native land.

Rain has fallen throughout a broad belt that extends across the continent from the South Atlantic states over the lower Mississippi valley, the Missouri valley, and the northern Rockies to the North Pacific coast.

Curious Bits of History

A SENATE OF WOMEN.

In the annals of the Roman empire no name is more conspicuously distinguished for crime, debauchery and riotous living than that of the Emperor Elagabalus, or, as he is more commonly known, Heliogabalus. He was but a child of 14 when he ascended the throne, and a mere youth of 18 when he died; yet into his brief reign of three years and nine months he managed to crowd more debauchery and vice, and that of a viler character, than some other Roman emperors were able to do in a long life-time. He was an effeminate youth, apparently with no tendencies whatever toward manliness. Yet he is credited with one thing that was not altogether bad; he created a senate, or deliberative body, composed entirely of women. This senate occupied the Quirinal, but instead of discussing affairs of state and methods of government, the women confined their deliberations entirely to questions of dress, toilet and etiquette.

"My dear, I was one of the very first to leave," said a man who, on returning from an evening party, was greeted reproachfully by his wife. "Oh, you always say that," she retorted.

"Well, I can prove it this time, anyhow," insisted the husband. "Look in the hall and see the gold-mounted umbrella I've brought home."

An Alabama negro was defended in court by Senator Morgan. Having cleared the negro of the charge, the senator said to him: "Rastus, did you really steal the mule?"

"Well, Marsa Morgan, it was just like this," said Rastus: "I really thought I did steal dat mule, but arter what you said to the jury I knows I didn't."

They were on a trip in Switzerland and had that day braved all dangers and ascended one of the highest points in the Alps.

He was very fat, and, as he stood panting and mopping his brow at the top of the mountain, he turned to his wife and said, with pathos in his voice:

"See dear, how small one is in the face of the immensity of nature!"

"Small indeed!" answered his better half. "Why, you're standing in front of me hiding the whole of Mount Blanc and the best part of the valley of Chamouni."

"The late Professor Corson of Cornell," said a Cornell instructor, "had little sympathy with the freakish philologists of the modern school."

"I once quoted to Professor Corson an extremely interesting and odd analogy that had just been suggested for a Celtic word. He smiled and said that the analogy was about as probable as that which linked fish scales to sinibiles."

"A little girl, he explained, 'once asked her mother:

"Are scales fastened on fish like shingles on a roof?"

"Yes, dear," her mother answered. "They're put on that way, of course," said the little girl, "to keep the fish from leaking."

"The elderly matron with the bundles, who was journeying to a point in Wisconsin and occupied a seat near the middle of the car, had fallen asleep. On the seat in front of her sat a small boy. The brakeman opened the door of the car and called out the name of the station the train was approaching. The elderly woman roused herself with a jerk.

SUFFRAGISTS PLAN A TOUR OF COUNTY

POLITICAL EQUALITY LEAGUE IN MEETING YESTERDAY PLAN
AUTO TRIP NEXT WEEK.

MISS GRIMM TO SPEAK

Famous "Girl Orator" Who Addressed
Social Union Club, Will Accompany
Local Suffrage Workers.

Arrangements have been made by the Political Equality League of Rock county for an automobile tour of this section next week for the purpose of distributing literature and holding meetings. Miss Harriet Grimm of Chicago, famous as the "girl orator," who addressed the Social Union club here this spring, will accompany the local suffrage workers and will speak at fifteen different towns where meetings will be held. It is the plan of the local society to hold a number of open-air gatherings in Janesville during the week whenever their engagements in other towns will permit.

Miss Grimm was born in Canton, Ill., where her mother and father are living at present. She attended the University of Chicago and graduated from there, receiving special honors in dramatics and forensics. Her plan was to teach for a few years in high schools and then continue her work in dramatics. She was discovered by Mrs. Ella S. Stewart, president of the Illinois Equal Suffrage League, who made a strong plea for engaging her in suffrage speaking and lobbying.

Since her graduation, she has been occupied with speaking on legislation for women and children for the Chicago Woman's club and in lobbying and speaking for the equal suffrage societies.

Her experience with the legislature of Illinois has made it possible for her to draw a graphic picture of this body which is a revelation to the majority of voters. There are few men and fewer women who have any idea of how our legislatures are conducted. Miss Grimm is as familiar with legislative proceedings as the most expert parliamentarian and can discuss government housekeeping, child labor laws and their enforcement, the protection of women in industry and the care of young girls and boys, and what Colorado, Wyoming, California, etc., have accomplished.

Miss Grimm will tour Rock county speaker and displays the most easy familiarity with her subject. She is a rapid-fire talker, ready with all up-to-the-minute arguments, charming, witty and captivating in her delivery. Her array of facts and figures are a marvel to her audience and she reviews the subject from an absolutely modern angle.

Requests constantly come into the headquarters asking for Miss Grimm as a speaker, especially from places where she has been before.

Miss Grimm will tour Rock county in July and will address voters from an automobile decorated in a wide banner, with Votes for Women prominently displayed. Her automobile tours up to this time have included Sauk county, Brown county, Keokuk county, and Door county. The first week of July will be spent in Columbia and Sauk counties, and she will be with Richard Lloyd Jones of Madison, the principal speaker at the Kibbourn Chautauque, July 4.

Miss Grimm heartily believes in carrying the message to the people, since the unconverted are very indifferent about seeking out information. She believes "that if the mountain won't go to Mohammed, Mohammed must go to the mountain." And so she is bringing the message of enfranchisement of women to the voters of the state.

Meeting Yesterday.

The Political Equality League held a meeting at the home of Mrs. Lovejoy, St. Lawrence avenue, Monday afternoon for reports, and informal discussion of the suffrage work in this county. The reports given indicated that the work is progressing very satisfactorily and branch organizations have been formed in Milton, Milton Junction and Edgerton, where the homes have been canvassed and literature distributed.

It was also decided at the meeting yesterday that the league would supply a speaker for the County fair at Evansville. Mrs. Ella S. Stewart of Chicago, who addressed the M. E. Brotherhood here several months ago, will be the speaker and will give her address on Thursday, Sept. 5, the "big day" of the fair.

LITERATURE REGARDING BEAUTIFUL MACKINAC ISLAND IN CONNECTION WITH LAKE TRIPS FREE TO THE PUBLIC AT THE GAZETTE TRAVEL BUREAU.

Among the other advantages afforded by a lake trip is an opportunity to visit Mackinac Island and in the literature giving general information, rates, etc., regarding such a trip from the different transportation companies operating on the Great Lakes, Mackinac is always featured as one of the most attractive stopping places on the route.

From its historic setting and natural beauty Mackinac Island is conceded to be one of the most interesting and beautiful places on the Great Lakes, and every summer thousands of people take advantage of the opportunity given by a lake trip to visit this well known and picturesque summer resort.

It is situated in the Straits of Mackinac with Lake Huron to the East and Lake Michigan to the West, and Lake Superior just a short distance to the north. The island is eight miles in circumference; its main plateau is 150 feet above the sea level and some of its highest points reach 318 feet above the level. Rising so high from the lake and fanned continuously by the cool breezes of the three lakes, Mackinac has a delightful climate that attracts thousands of people every season who return from their lake trip with a charming remembrance of the beautiful scenery and invigorating climate of this lovely island.

NUTSHELL ENGLISH COURSES

Instruction Provided in One Enlightening Book—Dictionary Home Study.

Home study has been discussed and advertised extensively during the past few years. Various methods and means have been introduced, but The Gazette believes that the best self-cured education obtainable in the English language and general information upon a most economical basis is offered in the New Websterian 1912 Dictionary, Illustrated.

The Gazette offers you in one volume, bound between handsome leather covers, a complete education in the English language, an abundant opportunity of increasing your vocabulary, studying simplified spelling, and much other useful information for the six coupons clipped from consecutive issues of this paper and a small bonus.

This Dictionary is NOT published by the original publishers of Webster's Dictionary or by their successors.

It has been revised and brought up to the present date in accordance with the best authorities from the greatest universities, and is published by a well-known Publishing Co., of New York City.

Commercially speaking, the purchase of this leather-bound volume means that you are getting $4.00 for 98 cents, but generally speaking, it is impossible to estimate the value such a course of at-your-elbow education may be to you.

There are three styles of books, but the "Imp" leather volume seems to have the edge. The other two books are as good dictionaries in cheaper bindings.

Not hundreds but thousands of stenographers and clerks have determined to get out of the poorly paid class in which they have been placed by their ignorance and are using the dictionary route. Those who are climbing high each day are using the New Websterian Dictionaries as the stepping stones of their progress.

The Big Little Book is always at the elbow of those anxious and willing to learn. There can be but one result of the awakening of those who by sloth and misunderstanding had lost the approval of their employers. If you doubt the truth of the interest awakened in the dictionary come to the Dictionary Department and be convinced.

Bowels are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during the sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally.

This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Evelyn Matson, 516 Milwaukee St., Milwaukee, Wis., and Mrs. Kate Hawley, Waukesha, Wis., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar, a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

CANADA'S GRAND OLD MAN IS NINETY-ONE.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Vancouver, B. C., July 2.—Sir Charles Tupper, who has made his home with his sons in this city since the death of his wife last spring, quietly observed his ninety-first birthday anniversary today. Felicitous messages were received from friends in all parts of Canada. Sir Charles is justly entitled to be called Canada's "Grand Old Man." It is more than half a century since he became a historic figure by defeating for the Nova Scotia assembly the Hon. Joseph Howe, then leader of the Liberal party in that colony. He was one of the great leaders in the movement which brought the Dominion of Canada into existence and is now the only surviving Father of Confederation. During his active career he held most of the portfolios of the Federal ministry at various times, as well as the premiership of Nova Scotia and the office of High Commissioner of Canada in London.

FINNISH BAYREUTH FESTIVAL WILL BE OPENED TOMORROW.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Helsingfors, July 2.—Great preparations have been completed for what is ambitiously termed the Finnish Bayreuth festival, which is to be opened tomorrow at Nyslot, a picturesque little town on the Kyrönsund. Ex-Premier Moret and a majority of the liberals oppose the bill. ## Two Worth Reprinting.

An easy way to save $4 is to run these two anecdotes, which are taken from Kansas exchanges. They are better than most of those submitted at the stipulated rate. The first one is from the Manhattan Mercury, and the second is from the Cherryville Journal:

A tramp applied to a Manhattan woman the other day for something to eat. "Poor man," she said, "have you a wife or family?" "Madam," he indignantly replied, "do you suppose that I would depend upon total strangers for something to eat if I had a wife?"

An old lady went to the Episcopal church for the first time Sunday. She sat patiently through all the service, and going home her daughter asked her if she enjoyed it. "Oh, it was a very fine sermon, when the preacher got around to it," she replied, "but, my dear, it took him so long to do up the chores first."—Kansas City Star.

MARY ELLEN'S WAY

She Develops in Mr. Mary Ellen a Taste for Beauty Rather Than Mere Style in Woman's Dress

MARY ELLEN noted Mary Ellen's dress for the Club dance with disapproval. Mary Ellen noticed his glance, but only said enthusiastically:

"How nice you always look in evening clothes. I don't know whether it's the expanse of snowy skirt-front or what, but evening dress is awfully becoming to you. Whenever you are dolled up for a party, I am more in love with you than ever."

Mr. Mary Ellen glanced with satisfaction at himself in the glass, and decided not to say what he had in mind about his wife's frock. Nevertheless, he couldn't help wishing she would be a little more stylish.

As they walked down the street behind a very stout lady in an extremely narrow-skirted blue silk dress, Mary Ellen remarked, "Don't you think these awfully tight skirts are hideously ugly?"

"Um—er—everybody seems to be wearing them."

"That doesn't make them beautiful. If a woman wearing such a skirt were dropped into a crowd of ten years ago or ten years hence, she would be pronounced a freak. Our eyes are accustomed to the sight, that's all. For instance, what would you think of that woman, if she were the very first specimen of this style of dress you had seen?"

Mr. Mary Ellen critically eyed the animated barrel tottering in front. "It's a queer looking object," he admitted.

"These skirts," went on Mary Ellen, "if proportioned right, are very pretty. Then they are artistic, and art is always beautiful. But when a tall, thin woman gets into one a half yard wide, you think of a perambulating bean-pole; and when a woman with big hips dons a skin-tight skirt, your mind dwells on the hippopotamus. Some women think the more extreme they are, the more fashionable they are. But when they simply go in for style without any regard for suitability, they make themselves freaks. Whereas, with a little regard for lines and proportion and harmony they could be both fashionable and beautiful."

Mr. Mary Ellen looked with disgust at the woman in front. "She certainly is a sight," he said. "I bet she can't sit down."

"Of course, she can't," said Mary Ellen. "And she can hardly walk either. Such dress is ridiculous."

"So it is," said Mr. Mary Ellen, glancing with approval at Mary Ellen's slim but graceful skirt. Then he looked again at the skin-tight monstrosity in front of him and was glad his wife did not get herself up in any such rig.

On the way home, Mary Ellen casually remarked, "Don't you think the way some women wear their hair is too funny for anything? They affect simplicity to such an extent there's nothing left but affectation. Or else they out-Greek the Greeks, or they put on such elaborate bands there's nothing to be seen but the band. They remind me of Filis or Holtenots or some of those savages who do their hair up in all sorts of queer ways, and then stick it full of feathers and bows and arrows and palm trees and such things."

Mr. Mary Ellen laughed. "Some of their top-knots did look queer," he admitted.

A few evenings later as he entered the house and Mary Ellen came running to meet him, he stared aghast. "What in the dickens—" he began.

"We're going to the theatre tonight, don't you remember?" he thought I would get dressed before dinner. What's the matter?"

"Where in the name of heavens did you get those clothes?"

"Don't you like me?" asked Mary Ellen, plaintively. "I thought I would get myself up real stylishly."

"Take 'em off," said Mr. Mary Ellen. "Take 'em off. I wouldn't be seen on the street with you in that skirt and with your hair fixed in that outlandish fashion. What's come over you?"

As Mary Ellen slowly went upstairs she smiled a demure, little smile and as she removed from her hair a yard or so of ribbon and all the fancy ornaments she owned, and gingerly took off the skirt she had basted in, she laughed, a jolly rollicking laugh at the reflection in her mirror.

"What were you laughing at?" asked Mr. Mary Ellen, coming in.

"I was a freak," said Mary Ellen, "and I'm glad you had the good taste to see it. I really believe you have awfully good judgment about dress."

"Yes," said Mr. Mary Ellen, "I know if a woman looks right or not."

A New Old Household Soap

"Old Country" is not a new brand of household soap. It is a new soap, but new only to American housewives. It is the same identical soft green soap which has been a staple—like sugar and butter—in the old countries since 1753.

Now Available for the First Time in America

No amount of money could buy the formula for "Old Country" Green Soap. To be able to make it in America we had to bring over one of the family that first made it in Europe and still makes it. He is our Chief Chemist.

THE TALKATIVE WIFE.

SHE is growing daily more common, I think. Indeed, I somehow can't imagine her existing at all in grandmother's and "Aunt Tabitha's" day, and must believe her entirely a growth of the last two generations.

Perhaps I'm wrong, but that is certainly my feelings about her. And she—as you are probably quite ready to know by this time—is the young married woman who talks about her ultra-private matrimonial affairs; who tells her sister, or her best friend, or her cousin, or even her next door neighbor, things about her most intimate family life which should have been kept absolutely sacred.

That a young married woman should confide "everything" to her mother has always seemed doubtful tactics to me.

That she should open her whole heart to any less trustworthy and intimate confidante than this friend who is bound to her by a tie, second only to that which makes "two one flesh," seems to me the very height of folly.

And yet, how many women nowadays do make just this mistake!

And not only coarse and uneducated women, either. I recall especially just now the case of a young professor's wife at college who made an intimate friend of one of the students and confided many things to her that one would have thought she would at least have known enough to keep for married ears. The intimate friend "leaked" and soon half the college was in possession of the young professor's wife's silly confidences.

She was a woman whom we had been inclined to admire very much at first, but I assure you that after this incident she suffered a decided loss of prestige.

While I am on this subject there is a very similar folly which I should like to say a word against, and that is the decidedly inadvisable way in which two intimate married couples will sometimes talk and act in each other's presence.

For four young married folks to find pleasure in each other's company is a very good thing. It often comfortably relieves the too continuous strain of late-afternoon.

But for any couple to become so intimate with another as to throw down the barriers and talk and act as they would if alone is decidedly bad.

It does not blot out the wrong that both husband and wife are party to it, nor make their conduct any less immodest and indelicate.

It is natural that the young married woman, carried away as she is with her new viewpoint on life, should be in an expansive and communicative mood.

But if she wants to be sure of having nothing to regret in after life, let her keep constantly in mind the saying of the old Greek philosopher:—"I have often regretted my speech; never my silences."

HOUSEHOLD TALKS
by
Henrietta D. Grauel

Currants, cherries and huckleberries in pies and tarts and cobbles make one glad to be alive in June when the wherewithal for the making of these choice desserts are so easily come by.

Green currant pie is made from the fruit that is just at the turning point; if a few ripe currants are mixed in it all the better.

Line a pie-shape tin with a thin short crust, sprinkle over it two heaping tablespoons of sugar and two tablespoons of flour and cornstarch mixed together and moistened with cold water. Wash the currants and pick over carefully. Fill the shell with them and add enough sugar to make a cupful, with what has been put in first. Add two tablespoons of rich, sweet cream; put on the upper crust and bake until a light brown in a moderately hot oven.

Berry Pie Hints—Fruit pies baked in too hot an oven will burst and the juice will run out. When pies are very juicy, it is a good idea to bind them with a strip of muslin or cheese cloth. Use a piece half an inch wide and long enough to go around the pie plate. Press the edges of the crusts well together, wet the cloth and put it around, letting the ends lap. This prevents the juice running out or the edges of the crust burning.

Upper crusts must always be perforated to permit the steam to escape, and if a small funnel, made from stiff white paper, is placed in the incision the juice will not run out over the crust.

When pie crust is done will slide easily about the tin, but there is no way to tell when the fruit filling are cooked sufficiently except by timing the baking process. And even then you must remember that some fruit cooks more quickly than other kinds.

The rich brown gloss seen on pies made by professionals can be obtained by any baker. Here's the wrinkle: beat an egg slightly with a little milk and sugar. When the pastry is ready to go into the oven brush it over with this wash. This is called pastry glazing. Red raspberries and ripe currants combine as well in pies as in other fruit dishes. Either put a layer of sugar, a layer of raspberries and a layer of currants in the lower crust until it is full, or mix the sugar and fruit in a bowl, crushing to a jam, and then put it in.

Two tablespoons of cream added to the fruit improves any berry pie, and whipped cream served on pie gives delightful "pie à la mode."

Any "young thing" can bake a cherry pie as quick as a cat can wink her eye, if she is provided with the right sort of cherries, tart ones—sweet cherries will not make satisfactory pies. Fill the crust generously with a cup of stoned cherries, sprinkle in a cup of sugar mixed with a teaspoon of flour. Dot over this a few bits of butter. Dot over this a few bits of butter. Dot over this a few bits of butter. Dot over this a few bits of butter.

Fill the crust with the right sort of cherries this will make a perfect cherry pie.

Huckleberry pies will always be distinctively American, for Mark Twain named Huckleberry Finn in their honor, and no one ever reads the one or eats the other without a sigh of gratitude for being a Yankee.

A quart of berries is needed for one pie. Stem and wash carefully and fill the lower crust with them. Add enough maple syrup to half cover the berries. Put on the upper crust with a fanciful "H" cut in it and bake in a quick oven about forty minutes.

If you have no maple syrup sweeten with powdered or granulated sugar but do not spoil the flavor of your huckleberries by using brown sugar or molasses as so often directed.

Gooseberry tarts—Top and fill a quart of green gooseberries and cook them in a porcelain pan with a pint of sugar and enough water to prevent burning, until they break; stir often. Bake in a puff paste shell with a top

Heart and Home Problems

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson—I am going to you to—of course! Don't you love him?

(4) No.

(5) A girl is of age when she is 21 years old. In property matters, in most states a girl is of marriageable age at 18, which means that when she is 18 she is legally able to marry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—What do you think of a man who won't take off his hat when he meets a woman on the street?

M. T.

I think such a man has very bad manners. He is lacking in respect for his own mother when he does not honor the possible motherhood in every woman.

There is no excuse for any man not knowing enough to take off his hat to any woman with whom he is acquainted.

Don't be gushy with a beau, and never, never tell him you love him better than anybody else unless he asks you to marry him. Then it's time enough to tell him that you love him. Don't tell him too often after that either. Let him do the telling.

Invite the young man to come to your home and meet your parents. He should have asked you for this privilege, but perhaps he has been too shy or thoughtless. Every nice young man wants to visit a girl in her home.

Read the newspapers and you will find in them plenty of things to talk about. Lead your young man to talk about himself and his affairs. That will be interesting to him, and, if you love him, will interest you also.

Dear Mrs. Thompson—(1) I am engaged to a young man whom I love very dearly and I would not like to hurt his feelings, but he has a habit I do not like and that is, he wants to hug and kiss me all the time when we are alone together. I do not think it is proper, as it will be a good while before we are married. Do you know a good way to break him of this habit without making him feel offended?

(2) How often and when should a young man kiss a girl when they are engaged?

(3) Is it proper for the girl to kiss the young man when he asks her. If not, what should she say?

(4) Do you think jealousy is true love?

(5) How old should a girl be when she is of age?

(6) Do not see him alone so much. You are quite right in thinking that an engaged couple should not embrace and kiss too much. It is the surest way of making them tired of each other. Married folks can't stand too much of it either. Ask your fiancé to respect your dignity a little more.

(7) Of course you can't blame a young man for wanting to kiss the girl he is engaged to as much and as often as he can. There isn't any rule for this. It all depends upon the young people themselves, but the modest girl will discourage too much kissing.

(8) Kiss your fiancé when he asks.

By DR. T. J. ALLEN

THE ORIGINAL DIET PRESCRIPTION.

"If man would only consent to carry out the diet prescribed by the very highest authority, the Creator," says Dr. Robert Bell of England, "we would soon cease to inquire after each other's health; for the reason that there would be no disease. Behold, I have given you every herb, bearing seed, which is upon the face of the earth, and every tree, in which is the fruit of a tree, yielding seed; to you it shall be for meat."

Dr. Bell says that the immunity of animals in their natural state, is due largely to the fact that they follow this natural system by instinct. There is no doubt that a natural, simple system of diet would avoid most, if not all, of the diseases to which civilized man is liable, although there are other factors in health which must not be ignored, particularly exercise, water, air and sun.

From bad dietetic habits, however, more sickness results than from any other cause. "The undue retention of waste in the body," says Dr. Bell, "is one of the most potent factors at work in reducing the disease-resisting power of the otherwise capable cells of which the body is composed."

EX-SHERIFF'S SON MISSING FROM HOME

Fourteen Year Old Clarence Scheibel of Beloit Draws $50 and Disappears Saturday.

Clarence Scheibel, the 14-year-old son of former Sheriff Rhoda Scheibel, left Saturday for parts unknown and without taking anyone into his confidence as to where his destination would be.

It seems that the lad has had the western fever for some time and has repeatedly spoken of going west but no particular attention was ever paid to his story.

Last Saturday he asked his father for his bank book as he had some money to put in the bank and on being given it, went to the bank and drew $50 that he had deposited there and has not been seen or heard from since.

A rigid search is being made for him and it is hoped he will be intercepted before he gets very far away.

THE PROTECTOR carton with broad green and red stripes brings Mex-O-Ja Coffee to you fresh, clean and full weight. The mechanical device used in packing Mex-O-Ja is more accurate than the most skilled workman. It not only weighs and packs the coffee, but hermetically seals the specially constructed bag which is then placed inside the protector carton.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, July 2, 1872.—Indian Outrage: A couple of Indians called at Joe Kahly's house on Sunday and intimated to a girl, whom Joseph employs to care for his offspring, that a donation of money would soothe their savage breasts and prevent a declaration of war. But her heart was untouched by this tender appeal and she declined to accede to their demand. The gentle savages then toyed with the furniture until a rocking chair went to pieces, when their wrath was appeased and they departed. Joseph has been on the war path ever since and if he meets the destroyers of his family arm chair, there will be scalps hanging in the Kahly wigwam.

The Mayor's Proclamation: Mayor Sutherland desires us to explain to the people that his proclamation is not intended to prohibit the use of fireworks on private grounds, away from the streets and sidewalks. We hardly suppose that our mayor would deprive us of the last remnant of our Fourth of July, and it is pleasant to know that his proclamation contemplates no such sweeping restriction.

Brief Items: The Brotherhood band, E. O. Kimberly, leader, on their way out to participate in the Fourth of July exercises at Madison, tarried in our city a portion of the day and favored us with some excellent music from the balcony of the Myers house.

Andrew Palmer has a field in the western part of the city which yielded him 2,225 pounds of tobacco to the acre last year. This is probably as good yield as the county produced.

A small bridge crossing a culvert at the intersection of Bluff and Racine street, third ward, was fired and partially burned on Saturday night. This is the second attempt that has been made to destroy this structure.

When you have a task ahead, do not view the same with dread—that's unwise; it is vain the rag to chew, or to raise a hullabaloo; no one knows what he can do till he tries. Though the task gives you a pain, it is idle to complain; spring a grin; do not stall around and say: "I'll do this some other day." Go to work, serene and gay, and you'll win. They who win the foremost place in the hustling worldly race are the chaps who go at their work with vim, with determination grim; looking not, till eyes grow dim, for the snags. At this juncture comes my friend, saying: "Dinner's ready now—come and eat!" If I was a trilling skate I might well procrastinate, showing to my helpful mate a frigid feet. I might say: "Oh, what's the use? Yesterday I ate a goose and a cheese; if you wish to please your hub you won't speak to me of grub; give it to some hungry duf, if you please." But when duty calls I rise, resolution in my eyes and my heart; to the table, stern and calm, then I go and eat a ham, winding up the meal with jam and a tart. This is aye the wiser plan; face your duty like a man—do not shrink! If you stall and hesitate, grumbling, at the rules of fate, we shall find you soon or late, on the blink!

Joy in Serving.
One has made a genuine discovery when one has grasped the fact that joy is a thing that is fast linked to service. Then one will cease indulging in idle, feverish dreams of millions and prominence. For the man who is not somehow serving humanity invariably gets a dark brown taste in his soul.

WILSON CHOICE OF DEMOCRATS EXTRA

New Jersey Governor Is Nominated
On Forty-Sixth Ballot By Total
Vote of 990.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Baltimore, Md., Convention Hall, July 2.—Woodrow Wilson, former President of Princeton University and Governor of New Jersey, was this afternoon nominated for the presidency by the democratic convention after forty-five fruitless ballots had been taken. His nomination became an accomplished fact after the forty-fifth ballot when Wilson showed a total of 663 votes to Clark's 306, Underwood's 97, Harmon's 25 and Foss's 27.

Senator Bankhead of Alabama, Congressman Underwood's campaign manager, asked permission to address the convention and withdrew the name of his candidate from further consideration. Then followed release after release of other campaign managers of their candidates votes.

Senator Stone of Missouri, released the Clark delegates, but stated that Missouri would continue to vote for their choice. Mayor Fitzgerald of Boston, Foss's captain, then released Foss followers and stated Massachusetts would vote for Wilson.

forty of the delegation and the state's twenty-four votes were cast for him. The Wilson adherents cheered Virginia, but from the Clark forces there went up a shout, Ryan and Bryan. Thomas F. Ryan who was denounced by William J. Bryan, is a member of the Virginia delegation.

The disorder was quieted only to break out with renewed vigor as the entire Clark vote of sixteen in West Virginia went over to Wilson. In Wisconsin Wilson gained one more.

Woodrow Wilson gained one hundred and eight votes on the forty-third ballot, the first cast today, and the hope for breaks appeared at hand. Illinois fifty-eight delegates propelled the movement and gains were made also from Connecticut, Idaho, Ohio, Louisiana, Maryland, Michigan, North Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, Wisconsin and Hawaii. Wilson's vote was six hundred and two, a majority of the convention.

It was the highest vote he had received and the vote of three hundred and twenty-nine for Clark was the lowest received by him during the prolonged balloting. When the result was announced the demonstration for Wilson was as enthusiastic and protracted as the weary delegates could make it. Wilson lacked only one hundred and twenty-four of the necessary two-thirds to nominate.

"Come on you, Wilson," yelled the Jersey delegation as they leaped to their chairs. The ballot left Wilson with one hundred and twenty-four short of the necessary two-thirds to nominate.

Once more the call of the roll began. It was the forty-fourth ballot and Wilson in the beginning gained one in Arizona. Colorado climbed aboard the band wagon giving Wilson a gain of nine. This made the vote ten to two for Wilson. One of the two was Mrs. Anna B. Fitzer, sister-in-law of Speaker Clark.

In Idaho on this ballot Wilson lost one-half a vote, but he gained two as Indiana's vote was cast solidly for him.

It was rumored on the convention floor that Governor Marshall of Indiana would be a candidate for vice-president if Wilson were nominated.

Wilson gained three and one-half in Iowa and Louisiana gave him one more. The Mississippi delegation was in caucus when called on the forty-fourth ballot and was passed. Previous to the conclusion of the forty-fourth ballot it was said that in the event of Mr. Wilson's nomination he would be asked to visit the convention and it was expected he would accept the invitation.

Under the new order the presentation of the platform was postponed until after the nomination of the candidate to permit him to inspect the declaration of principles in advance of its adoption. The leaders think the candidate can give better attention to the matter here than at his home.

Maryland gave Wilson a gain of one and one-half and Ohio gave him a gain of one more. Pennsylvania's two Clark men swung into the line and Wilson received the solid sixty-six from that state.

In Tennessee Wilson gained one. He cast his eight votes for him, a gain of one and one-half votes. Wisconsin swung into line with its twenty-six solid votes and a cheer from the Wilson adherents greeted this gain of four votes.

Woodrow Wilson lacked only ninety-six and one-half votes on the forty-fourth ballot, indicating a strong possibility of nomination on the forty-fifth ballot. It was reported that there would be a slump of Underwood votes to Wilson probably on the forty-fifth ballot, but certainly on the forty-fifth if that many ballots were cast.

When the forty-fifth ballot was called, Senator Bankhead of Alabama's campaign manager, had permission to address the convention and in a formal statement withdrew the name of Mr. Underwood. The cheering continued for some time and the ballot proceeded.

Although Wilson made slight gains early in the 45th ballot there were no serious breaks in the dwindling Clark ranks. At this point Senator Bankhead mounted the platform and released the Underwood delegates. He said Underwood had entered the convention hoping to be the nominee but his chief desire was to eradicate every vestige of sectional feeling, that had now been demonstrated by the liberal support given the Alabama candidate.

He would not be a party to the defeat of any candidate. "But I think the time has come to recognize that he cannot be nominated in this convention nor can he be used to defeat any other candidate," Bankhead proceeded Vice President.

A delegate from the floor "NO" shouted Bankhead. "He will not turn from the important duties he is performing to take such an office vice president."

"Mr. Underwood directs me to withdraw his name from this convention," said Bankhead amid impressive silence adding a tribute of thanks from Underwood from the sincere and loyal support given him. He added that all his friends were now at liberty to vote for whom they pleased.

Senator Stone of Missouri, moved to make the nomination of Woodrow Wilson by acclamation.

Baltimore, Md., July 2.—When the democratic national convention met today exactly one week after it was first assembled, the identity of the presidential nominee, was as much in doubt as it was at the initial session.

Woodrow Wilson, the leading candidate, lacked 231½ votes on the 42nd ballot, the last taken before adjournment last night. Champ Clark, who had dropped from first to second during the day's voting still appeared to control considerable more than enough delegates to block the nomination of Mr. Wilson without depending on the scattering votes.

To those closest in touch the situation today appeared to be complicated as much as ever. Friends of both Wilson and Clark began to entertain serious doubts as to whether either could be nominated in face of stubborn opposition of the other and today they were furiously casting their eyes about the field for a suitable "dark horse."

The Clark forces tried desperately all day yesterday to stem the tide of desertions from their wavering ranks. They saw their strength wane from 460 votes on the 27th ballot to 422 on the 39th while Wilson was drawing up from 406½ to 501½. Then when all seemed lost, the tide turned and the speaker made slight gains while the New Jersey governor was slipping back on the last three ballots. On the final poll, Wilson had 494 votes against 430 for Clark.

Several times yesterday Clark was on the verge of losing the 53 votes which the Illinois delegation had given him from the outset. The Wilson adherents were confident that the expected switch would come on the first ballot taken today. With Illinois taking they felt that the Clark route would be complete and that only a few more ballots would be necessary to win over the remaining votes necessary to their success.

On the other hand the Clark followers appeared confident that the Wilson assault had spent itself and that the deserters would return soon to the fold bringing many others with them. They so assured the speaker himself, who was in Baltimore last night for conference in regard to their situation. This assurance is said to have served to dissuade Mr. Clark from his purpose of appearing personally before the convention to answer the statements of Mr. Bryan.

Oscar W. Underwood has continued to rank third in the voting and neither of the two leading candidates has been able to make serious inroads on his strength. Friends of the Alabama insist that he is the only man whose nomination would bring ill-factions together.

Bryan was the center of interest as Wilson's nomination became certain. He said he had wanted most of all the nomination of a progressive.

WILSON GRATIFIED AT RESULT OF THE CONVENTION WHEN TOLD OF THE FINAL VOTE.

Sea Girl, July 2.—Governor Wilson and his daughter were seated on the veranda of the "Little White House" when notified by long distance telephone of his nomination. The honor is as great as can come to any man he said. "I hope to show my appreciation of the trust and confidence reposed in me."

A few minutes later he received a telegram from Underwood announcing his congratulations and promise of support.

WILSON IN BATH TUB WHEN CONVENTION NEWS ARRIVED

Seright, N. J., July 2.—Governor Wilson was in the bath tub when the reporters burst into the executive mansion and shouted "Governor, Illinois has nominated you." There were sounds of vigorous splashing within the bathroom but no other response. The governor's three daughters, danced with delight when they heard the news. A moment later the governor sent word to the reporters that he was "perfectly delighted."

TO WITHDRAWAL OF NAME

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Washington, July 2.—Congressman Underwood heard later by long distance telephone of the withdrawal of his name.

"My friends wish me to say that the action of Alabama was without my knowledge or approval, and I make that statement," he said.

"How about the vice-presidency?" he was asked.

"I am not a candidate. I do not want it and will not accept it if I am nominated."

He left his office in the city hall late in the afternoon and walked home. A few minutes later he was found dead in a woodshed in the rear of his home. He was formerly city treasurer of this city and a pioneer resident.

STRENGTH IS SHOWN FOR TAFT IN OHIO;
OTHER INDICATIONS

Roosevelt Adherents Defeated in First
Skirmish of Ohio Convention
—New York Strong
For Taft.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Columbus, O., July 2.—The Taft forces won the first test in the republican state convention today when a motion to table the minority report of the resolutions committee was adopted by a vote of 426½ to 301½. The minority report differed from the majority in that it made no reference to the Chicago convention or the Taft administration. The majority report was passed by a viva voce vote and the nominations for governor taken up.

With the Taft and Roosevelt factions still at loggerheads, with no less than ten candidates for gubernatorial nomination and with the practical assurance that there will be no third party split, the recessed session of the republican state convention probably will be thrown into a bitter fight immediately after convening today, when the majority and minority reports of the platform committee will be submitted for adoption.

The majority report was framed by the Taft leaders and contained a ringing endorsement of President Taft and his administration and of the platform adopted by the national convention at Chicago. The minority report of the Roosevelt supporters demanded that no further endorsement be made of the President, and that no allusion be made to the Chicago convention. At its first session, a resolution was passed by the state convention giving Taft a mild endorsement. The vote on the minority report as a substitute will show whether or not the Taft forces have lost or gained their majority of 23 votes which they displayed at the first session of the convention last month, when Ohio's six delegates at large were selected to the national convention at Chicago.

New York For Taft.

New York, July 2.—The republican ticket and platform adopted at Chicago will be ratified by New York republicans at a meeting to be held tonight at the republican club.

Several local assembly organizations have already endorsed the Taft ticket and those which have not done so are now planning to hold ratification meetings in their future.

Unite Against Roosevelt.

Huron, S. D., July 2.—The republicans of the South Dakota met today to adopt a platform and nominate candidates for presidential electors. The Taft-La Follette delegates have combined their forces against the Roosevelt men and claim they will control the convention. The La Follette will ask for three of the five electors. The Taft men hope to secure the adoption of a resolution endorsing Taft's administration.

FIVE KILLED WHEN
DIRIGIBLE BALLOON'S
GAS BAG EXPLODED

DESIGNED FOR ATTEMPT TO
CROSS ATLANTIC IT IS DE-STROYED, ON TRIAL TRIP.

VIEWED BY THOUSANDS

Who Watched Daring Voyagers Sailing About in Skies at Atlantic City When Accident Occurred.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Atlantic City, N. J., July 2.—In view of three thousand spectators the big dirigible balloon Akron was shattered by the explosion of the gas bag at 6:33 this morning, a half mile from the shore of the Absecon Inlet.

Melvin Vaniman, who had built the airship with the idea of flying across the Atlantic Ocean, Calvin Vaniman, his younger brother, Fred Elmer, Walter Guest and George Bourdillon, his crew, were instantly killed.

The dirigible was sailing at a height of one thousand feet and had been in the air since 5:15 o'clock when the accident occurred. It was just above Brigantine Beach, which is across the inlet from this city.

The huge envelope containing thousands of cubic inches of gas was wrenched from the dirigible by the explosion, probably caused by expansion from the sun's rays.

It burst near the middle and a mass of flames hid the ship from view where for a space of ten minutes the dirigible was invisible while the air about the spot where she had been hovering seemed to be a mass of flames.

The fire dissipated and the ship's outline was seen against the sunrise and seemed to fall like a plummet.

First the understructure of the car in which the unfortunate men were held in by a meshwork put on after the second trip of the balloon, made it impossible to escape, broke away from the envelope and fell.

It up ended, the bow turning first in the low arc. Then it reversed suddenly and plunged downward.

Directly above twisting in a long spiral was the bag, a mass of rubber and silk with flames shooting out from all sections as it collapsed.

In the descent what appeared to be the body of a man shot out of the wreckage and hit the water before the rest of the mass of flames and it was reported that it was the headless body of Calvin Vaniman.

At 8:20 a. m., a message was relayed ashore from rescuers that his body had been recovered. With it came the statement from Captain Lambert Pastner of the Absecon life saving crew that this was true and the other members of the crew were entangled in the wreckage beyond reach for the present in eighteen feet of water.

Thousands of people from every part of the resort were gathered along the inland beach and about the Vaniman cottage just across from Bangor at the inlet where Mrs. Vaniman collapsed and became unconscious from the shock. A physician was in attendance.

Police reserves, who had helped to launch the craft which sailed along gracefully until the accident occurred kept the crowd from about the Vaniman villa.

The flight was the second the airship had taken this year. After making all winter with the airship Vaniman took her out for a short flight Saturday morning, June 1. At that time he was obliged to land early by some of the mechanism being out of shape, but landed with serious mishap.

The longest flight made was last fall when it spent the greater part of the day in the air in the vicinity of this city. At that time the gas in the bag was not sufficient to keep the airship constantly in the air and it had to make several landings. During the winter Vaniman improved the ship through lessons he had learned in that flight.

In general appearance the Akron was not unlike the America in which Walter Wellman and Vaniman attempted to cross the Atlantic Ocean in October, 1901, but there were many differences in construction. The gas bag was about thirty feet longer than the America, but was smaller in diameter. The length of the bag was one hundred and fifty-eight feet, diameter twenty-seven feet. The bag was made of rubber and was constructed in Ohio.

The car was similar in shape to the America, but was longer, perhaps one hundred and fifty feet. The bottom of the car was composed of a round steel tank two feet in diameter and about one hundred feet long. In this was stored gasoline. The car was connected to the gas bag by a steel tubing of light construction.

On top of the tank was a big platform of two-inch boards and on this rested one one-hundred horse power motor, two of eighty horse power, one seventeen horse power and a small dynamo.

An eye-witness of the disaster told this story of what he saw:

"When about one thousand feet in the air I saw a sudden puff of smoke from the forward end of the bag. In a minute it exploded."

To those who had witnessed the flights of Vaniman this one seemed to be the most successful of any he ever made at the start. The crew seemed to have better control than ever before. Starting out from a hangar the ship rose slowly from the ground and passed easily over the water in the inlet grazing the masts of the fleet of yachts anchored there.

Vaniman and his crew were cheered by a number of fishing parties in the inlet about to start out for a day's sport and the whistles from the boats sounded "God speed" to the air ship and its crew.

After being up about thirty feet the air ship made a complete circle of the water on Grady Bay. Apparently Vaniman was making a test of the air current.

Mrs. Vaniman, although she fainted on the porch of her little dwelling when she saw her husband dropping to his death, stood as brave as the others, after she became conscious and was upon her feet. Mrs. Bourdillon and Mrs. Elmer cried on Mrs. Vaniman's shoulder.

Despite the intensity of the moment Mrs. Vaniman talked of her husband. "He was so very brave," she said, "that I believe he never knew what fear was. I never presumed to urge him not to go up for I knew it would not influence him."

The spectators did not realize that anything had happened until suddenly the huge bag was seen to buckle from the two ends, forming a great "U." There was no report, but immediately the collapsed bag fell toward the ocean with frightful velocity.

An eye-witness said: "The forms of five men could be plainly seen plunging down through the air from a great height. Their bodies turned over and over again before they sank in the sea just off the outer bar and not far from a sea buoy."

"From the board walk abreast of the life-saving station it looked as if the low limp gas bag had its metal frame-work covered by their bodies. Men on the board walk turned their eyes from the sight and women screamed. One man who appeared to grasp the situation made a dash for a hotel to telephone for help."

A large launch on the way to the fishing grounds started to blow a whistle to attract the attention of the boats and in a short time the inlet waters were blocked with boats rushing to the aid of the men."

Vaniman, because of his genial disposition, had endeared himself to the citizens of Atlantic City and his untimely end caused universal sorrow here.

Three of the widows of the men killed in the airships are Mrs. Vaniman, Mrs. Bourdillon and Mrs. Elmer. They had gathered at the Vaniman cottage across from the hangar within an hour after the accident.

At 12:09 Chairman James took his place on the platform and at 12:15 directed the calling of the roll for the forty-third time. There was a general impression that today's session would find some means of breaking the deadlock.

In Arizona on the forty-third vote Clark lost 1 vote to Bryan. Connecticut showed a gain of two for Wilson. They left the Clark Column. In Idaho Wilson gained one and one-half.

The hall was quiet as Illinois was reached. When Roger C. Sullivan of Chicago announced "eighteen votes for Clark; forty for Wilson" there was great cheering.

Chairman James pounded the table with his gavel and finally quieted the uproar. "Illinois, under the unit rule, cast fifty-eight votes for Wilson," he announced and an cheer greeted the shift.

This gave Wilson a cle gain of fifty-eight votes in Illinois. The New Jersey governor continued to gain. In Iowa he added one and one-half to his total vote.

CHAPTER XII.

In Which M. Segur, the Keeper of the Seals, Seeks a Love Letter.

It is impossible to form an idea of the impression these few words made upon Louis XIII. He grew pale and red alternately, and the cardinal saw at once that he had recovered, by a single blow, all the ground he had lost.

"M. de Buckingham in Paris?" cried he, "and what does he come to do here?"

"To conspire, no doubt, with your enemies the Huguenots and the Spaniards."

"No, not to conspire against my honor, with Mme. de Chevreuse, Mme. de Longueville and the Comdes."

"Oh! sire, what an idea! The queen is too prudent and, besides, loves your majesty too well."

"Woman is weak, M. le Cardinal," said the king, "and as to loving me much I have my own opinion respecting that love."

"None the less I maintain," said the cardinal, "that the Duke of Buckingham came to Paris for a project purely political."

"And I am sure that he came for quite another purpose."

"Mme. de Lannoy," said the cardinal, "whom, according to your majesty's command, I have frequently interrogated, told me this morning that the night before last her majesty sat up very late, that this morning she wept much and that she was writing all day."

"That's it!" cried the king: "to him, no doubt, Cardinal, I must have the queen's papers."

"But how to take them, sire? It seems to me that neither your majesty nor I can charge ourselves with such a mission."

"She has about her a certain Laporte."

"Who, I believe, is the mainspring of all this, I confess," said the cardinal.

"You think, then, as I do, that she deceives me?" said the king.

"I tell you the queen loves that infamous Buckingham. Why did you not cause him to be arrested while he was in Paris?"

"Arrest the duke! Arrest the prime minister of King Charles II! Think of it, sire! What a scandal!"

"But all the time he was in Paris you, of course, did not lose sight of him?"

"No, sire."

"Where did he lodge?"

"Rue de la Harpe, No. 75."

"Where is that?"

"By the side of the Luxembourg."

"And you are certain that the queen and he did not see each other?"

"I believe the queen to have too high a sense of her duties, sire."

"But they have corresponded. It is to him that the queen has been writing all day. M. le Duc, I must have those letters."

"There is but one means."

"What is that?"

"That would be to charge M. de Segur, the keeper of the seals, with this mission. The matter enters completely into the duties of his post."

"Let him be sent for instantly."

"Your majesty's orders shall be executed, but the queen will perhaps refuse to obey."

"What, my orders?"

"Yes, if she is ignorant that these orders come from the king."

"Well, that she may have no doubt on that head I will go and inform her myself. Send for monsieur the keeper of the seals. I will go to the queen."

And Louis XIII., opening the door of communication, passed into the corridor which led to the apartments of Anne of Austria.

about to receive a visit from the chancellor, who will communicate certain matters to you, with which I have charged him."

"But why this visit, sire? What can M. the Chancellor have to say to me that your majesty could not say yourself?"

The king turned upon his heel without reply, and almost at the same instant the captain of the guards, M. de Guittant, announced the visit of M. the Chancellor.

When the chancellor appeared the king had already gone out by another door.

The chancellor was a pleasant man. It was Des Roches le Masle, canon of Notre Dame, and who had formerly been valet de chambre to the cardinal, who introduced him to his eminence as a perfectly devoted man. The cardinal trusted him and found his advantage in it.

The queen was still standing when he entered, but scarcely had she perceived him than she resented his air, with an air of supreme hauteur, said:

"What do you desire, monsieur, and with what object do you present yourself here?"

"To make, madame, in the name of the king, and without prejudice to the respect which I have the honor to owe to your majesty, a close perquisition into all your papers. Be kind enough to pardon me, madame, but in this circumstance I am but the instrument which the king employs."

"Examine, then, monsieur. I am a criminal, as it appears. Estafania, give the keys of my tables and my secretaries."

For form's sake the chancellor paid a visit to the pieces of furniture named, but he well knew that it was not to a piece of furniture that the queen would place the important letter she had written in the course of the day.

When the chancellor had opened and shut twenty times the drawers of the secretaries it became necessary, whatever hesitation he might experience, it became necessary, I say, to come to the conclusion of the affair—that is to say, to search the queen herself. The chancellor advanced, therefore, toward Anne of Austria and with a very perplexed and embarrassed air:

"And now," said he, "it remains for me to make the principal perquisition."

"What is that?" asked the queen, who did not understand, or, rather, was not willing to understand.

"His majesty is certain that a letter has been written by you in the course of the day. He knows that it has not been sent to its address. This letter must be somewhere."

"Would you dare to lift your hand to your queen?" said Anne of Austria, drawing herself up to her full height and fixing her eyes upon the chancellor with an expression almost threatening.

"The letter is here," and the queen laid her beautiful hand on her bosom. "I will give it to none but the king, monsieur."

"If the king had desired that the letter should be given to him, madame, he would have demanded it of you himself, and if you do not give it up!"

"Well?"

"He has, then, charged me to take it from you. Be kind enough, then, madame, to act more compliantly."

"This conduct is infamously violent!"

"The king commands it, madame. Excuse me."

"I will not suffer it! No, no, I would rather die!"

The chancellor made a profound reverence. Then, with the intention quite patent of not drawing back a foot from the accomplishment of his commission, he approached Anne of Austria, from whose eyes at the same instant sprang tears of rage. She made one step backward, became so pale that it might be said she was dying, and, leaning with her left hand to keep herself from falling upon a table behind her, she with her right hand drew the paper from her bosom and held it out to the keeper of the seals.

"There, monsieur, there is that letter," cried the queen, with a broken and trembling voice, "take it and deliver me from your odious presence."

The door was scarcely closed upon him when the queen sank, half fainting, into the arms of her women.

The chancellor carried the letter to the king without having read a single word of it. The king took it with a trembling hand, looked for the address, which was wanting, became very pale, opened it slowly, then, seeing by the first words that it was addressed to the king of Spain, he read it rapidly.

It was nothing but a plan of an attack against the cardinal. The queen pressed her brother and the emperor of Austria to appear to be wounded, as they really were, by the policy of Richelieu, the eternal object of which was the abasement of the house of Austria; to declare war against France, and, as a condition of peace, to insist upon the dismissal of the cardinal.

The king, quite delighted, went straight to the cardinal.

"There, duke," said he, "you were right and I was wrong. The whole intrigue is political, and there is not the least question of love in this said letter. But, on the other hand, there is abundant question of you."

The cardinal took the letter, and read it with the greatest attention.

"Well, your majesty," said he, "you see how far my enemies go. They threaten you with two wars if you do not dismiss me. In your place, I, in truth, sire, I should yield to such powerful instances, and, on my part, it would be a real happiness to withdraw from public affairs. My health is sinking under these annoying struggles, and these never ending labors. You would be the happier for it at home, sire, and I do not doubt you would be the greater for it abroad."

"M. le Duc," said the king, "I understand you. Be satisfied. All who are named in that letter shall be punished as they deserve, and the queen herself shall not be forgotten."

"What do you say, sire? Heaven forbid that the queen should suffer the least inconvenience or uneasiness on my account. She has always believed me, sire, to be her enemy, although your majesty can bear witness that I have always taken her part warmly, even against you."

"That is true, M. le Cardinal," said the king, "and you were right, as you always are, but the queen not the less deserves all my anger."

"The queen is my enemy, but is not yours, sire. On the contrary, she is a devoted, submissive, and irreproachable wife. Allow me, then, sire, to intercede for her with your majesty."

"Let her humble herself, then, and come to me first."

"On the contrary, sire, set the example."

"What! I make advances first?" said the king. "Never!"

"Sire, I entreat you to do so."

"Besides, in what manner can I make advances first?"

"Give a ball. You know how much the queen loves dancing. I will answer for it her resentment will not hold out against such an attention."

"M. le Cardinal, you know that I do not like mundane pleasures."

"The queen will only be the more grateful to you, as she knows your antipathy for that amusement. Besides, it will be an opportunity for her to wear those beautiful diamonds which you gave her recently on her birthday and with which she has since had no occasion to adorn herself."

Then the cardinal, bearing the clock strike 11, bowed low, demanding permission of the king to retire and supplicating him to come to a good understanding with the queen.

Anne of Austria, who in consequence of the seizure of her letter, expected reproaches, was much astonished the next day to see the king make some attempts at reconciliation with her. Her first movement was repulsive. Overpersuaded by the advice of her women, she at last had the appearance of beginning to forget. The king took advantage of this favorable moment to tell her that he had the intention of shortly giving a fete.

A fete was so rare a thing for poor Anne of Austria that at this announcement, as the cardinal had predicted, the last trace of her resentment disappeared, if not from her heart, at least from her countenance. She asked upon what day this fete would take place, but the king replied that he must consult the cardinal upon that head.

In fact, every day the king asked the cardinal when this fete should take place, and every day the cardinal, under some pretense or other, deferred fixing it. Ten days passed away thus.

On the eighth day after the scene we have described, the cardinal received a letter with the London stamp, which only contained these lines:

"I have them, but I am unable to leave London for want of money; send me 500 pistoles, and four or five days after I have received them I shall be in Paris."

On the same day that the cardinal received this letter, the king put his customary question to him.

Richelieu counted on his fingers and said to himself:

"She will arrive, she says, four or five days after having received the money. It will require four or five days for the transmission of the money, four or five days for her to return, that makes ten days. Now, allowing for contrary winds, accidents and a woman's weakness, we cannot make it altogether less than twelve days."

"Well, M. le Duc," said the king, "have you made your calculations?"

"Yes, sire, today is the 20th of September; the seditious of the city give a fete on the 2d of October. That will fall in wonderfully well. You will not appear to have gone out of your way to please the queen."

Then the cardinal added:

"Appropos, sire, do not forget to tell her majesty the evening before the fete that you should like to see how her diamond studs become her."

CHAPTER XIII.

Bonacieux at Home.

It was the second time the cardinal had mentioned these diamond studs to the king. Louis XIII. was struck with these repetitions and began to fancy that this recommendation concealed some mystery.

He hoped in a conversation with Anne of Austria to obtain some information from that conversation and afterward to come upon his eminence with some secret which the cardinal either knew or did not know, but which in either case would raise him infinitely in the eyes of his minister.

He went, then, to the queen and, according to custom, accosted her with fresh menaces against those who surrounded her.

"But," cried Anne of Austria, tired of these vague attacks, "but, sire, you do not tell me all that you have in your heart. What have I done, then? Let me know what crime I have committed. It is impossible that your majesty can make all this to do about a letter written to my brother."

The king, attacked in a manner so direct, did not know what to answer, and he thought that this was the moment for expressing the desire which he was not to have made until the evening before the fete.

"Madame," said he, with dignity, "there will shortly be a ball at the Hotel de Ville. I wish that, to do honor to our worthy aldermen, you should appear at it in ceremonial costume and particularly ornamented with the diamond studs which I gave you on your birthday. That is my answer."

The answer was terrible. Anne of Austria believed that Louis XIII. knew all and that the cardinal had persuaded him to employ this long dissimulation of seven or eight days, which, likewise, was characteristic. She became excessively pale and was unable to reply by a single syllable.

"You hear, madame," said the king, who enjoyed this embarrassment to its full extent, but without guessing the cause, "you hear, madame. You will appear at this ball and with those studs."

"Yes."

The queen's paleness, if possible, increased. The king perceived it and enjoyed it with his cold cruelty.

"Then that is agreed," said he.

"But on what day will this ball take place?" asked Anne of Austria.

Louis XIII. felt instinctively that he ought not to reply to this question.

"Oh, very shortly, madame," said he, "but I do not precisely recollect the date of the day. I will ask the cardinal. Then you will appear?"

"Yes, sire."

"Very well," said the king, retiring; "I depend upon you."

The queen made a courtesy, less from etiquette than because her knees were sinking under her.

"I am lost," murmured the queen; "lost, for the cardinal knows all, and it is he who urges on the king, who as yet knows nothing, but will soon know everything. I am lost."

She knelt upon a cushion and prayed, with her head buried between her palpitating arms. In fact, her position was terrible. She had not a soul in the world in whom she could confide with safety.

"Can I be of no service to your majesty?" said all at once a voice full of sweetness and pity.

The queen turned sharply round, for there could be no deception in the expression of that voice. It was a friend who spoke thus. It was the pretty Mme. Bonacieux. She had been engaged in arranging the dresses and linen in a closet when the king entered. She could not get out and had heard all.

The queen uttered a piercing cry at finding herself surprised, for in her trouble she did not at first recognize the young woman who had been given to her by Laporte.

"Oh, fear nothing, madame!" said the young woman, clasping her hands and weeping herself at the queen's sorrows. "I am your majesty's body and soul, and however far I may be from you, however inferior may be my position, I believe I have discovered a means of extricating your majesty from your trouble."

"Look me in the face!" cried the queen. "I am betrayed on all sides! Can I trust in you?"

(To be continued.)

Knives, Spoons and Forks.

Knives and spoons are of great antiquity, but the use of forks is comparatively modern. Indispensable as these adjuncts of the table may now appear, they had not become at all general at the beginning of the eighteenth century.
